DEPOSED RULERS AT VLADIVOSTOK HIDE ON WARSHIP

Ousted Bolsheviks Seek Haven On U. S. Cruiser, Report

JAPANESE HAND SEEN

Partisans Of Soviet Here Blame Semenoff For Fall Of Government

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, May 26.—The Bolshevik members of the late Administration are hiding on board the American cruiser, it is rumored.

The Kappel troops have nominated a new Government of the Maritime Province, headed by M. Merkuloff, leader of the non-socialists. A Constituent Assembly of the Maritime Province will be convoked.

The new militia force, consisting of Kappelites, will be allowed to retain their arms, but the Japanese will disarm the remainder of the Kappel troops, in accordance with the terms of the Russo-Japanese Truce Agreement.

Note.—After the suppression of the Vladivostok revolution of April 5, 1920, an agreement was signed between the Japanese Government and the Zemstvo, the then Government of the Maritime Province, providing that no Russian armed troops should be allowed within a zone of 30 kilometers from the Japanese garrisons, with the exception of a certain number of Russian police—militia—whom the Japanese allowed to remain.

The Kappel troops in and around Vladivostok are variously estimated to number from six to ten thousand men, under the command of General Molchanoff. The militia number 1,000, of whom about 600 are in Vladivostok.

The following version of the trouble at Vladivostok was sent out yesterday by the Dalta News Agency's office in Shanghai:

(Dalta New Agency)

In the events of the last few days in the Maritime province can be clearly seen what has been prepared by Japan during the last several months. In Dairen, where Semenoff lived on the gold that he had stolen from the people in Zabaikal, and had established himself after his flight from that place, there were many conferences between him and his colleagues. These conferences were attended by many well known Japanese diplomats from Tokio, including the Commander of the Japanese forces in Siberia Tachibana. Ungern also had agents at these conferences.

In the eyes of the Russian people Semenoff is simply a Japanese Agent, and appears as an arch-traitor to whose standard the honest peasants and laborers cannot rally, and all Russians including the merchants and educated people consider him as one who is simply selling his country for Japanese gold. He has under him, for his army, only the Tsar's generals, and the criminal elements who have nothing to lose.

Without the support of Japan it would be utterly impossible for them to make any trouble for their own people. Reuter reports that the overthrow of Vladivostok has been accomplished by troops of General Kappel. This is not so. General Kappel died about two years ago, when his army retreated from Siberia. The greater part of his army returned to Soviet Russia, where they were not punished, but were encouraged to become peaceful citizens, which most of them still are. A very small part of these troops are remaining in the Maritime Province, and for the most part these, as well as those in other parts of Russia, oppose Semenoff.

The Japanese have now broken their agreement of the 29th of April last year in accordance with which they were not to permit the presence of any military forces in the Maritime Provinces except the police. And now, by the breaking of this agreement, they have overturned the Government that the people of the Maritime Province had set up, and were contentedly working under.

These traitorous events in Vladivostok show just how friendly are the intentions of Japan towards Russia. The Russian people, worn with war, are looking to the fair-minded nations to judge if what happened a year ago in Transbaikal will be allowed to happen in Maritime Province now

Peeved By Caricature, Famous French Actress Tries To Destroy It

ALL Paris is talking about the disturbance created in the Salon des Humoristes the other day by Mlle. Cecile Sorel, the celebrated actress of the Comedie Francaise, who attempted to destroy a caricature of herself on exhibition there. The caricature, by Bib, the famous Parisian cartoonist, has attracted much attention. Mlle. Sorel, provoked by the caricature, succeeded in breaking the glass that covered it, but was seized by attendants before she could do more damage. After the incident Mlle. Sorel discovered that she had lost a ruby she valued at 10,000 francs during the fracas. She is suing the Salon des Humoristes for 10,000 francs for exhibiting the caricature, which, she claims, makes her appear ridiculous.

P. S. CRAWLEY FIGURES IN ROW ON JAP STEAMER

Knocks Down Siberia Maru's Steward As Vessel Nears San Francisco

MUCH FRICTION ON SHIP

American Authorities Refuse To Issue Warrant After Inquiry Is Made

Mr. P. S. Crawley, commercial traveler and latterly a Harbin moving picture man, who is well-known in Shanghai, was the central figure in a disturbance that included the knocking down of a Japanese steward when the T.K.K. line Siberia Maru landed in San Francisco on April 18, according to reports published by San Francisco papers.

From these accounts it is apparent that considerable friction between white passengers and Japanese passengers and crew developed in the course of the voyage across the Pacific. The liner was flying the police flag when it arrived at quarantine and when harbor police boarded the vessel they were informed that Mr. Crawley had assaulted a Japanese porter.

Mr. Crawley, who was making the voyage with his family, asserted that a Japanese porter had deliberately tripped him when he was making his way to the deck with his four-year-old child in his arms, causing him to fall on the child. For this he knocked the Japanese down.

After the harbor police had declined to arrest Mr. Crawley until a warrant had been applied for and issued an effort was made by officials of the company at San Francisco on behalf of the Japanese who had been knocked down to obtain a warrant for Mr. Crawley's arrest, but the authorities declined to issue the warrant after an inquiry had been made in connection with the case.

One version of the origin of the troubles that developed on the Siberia Maru on its way across the Pacific was that American passengers refused to contribute to a fund for games aboard the ship when they learned that 10 percent of it was to go to the Japanese crew.

PEACE HOPES DIMINISH

Burning Of Customs House Called Bad Omen By Newspapers

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 26.—In the House of Commons today at question time, the Chief Secretary for Ireland, Sir Hamar Greenwood, said that 17,388 rounds of American Ammunition has been captured in Dublin since March 26.

Replying to supplementary questions, urging that representations be made to the American Government on the subject, Sir Hamar Greenwood said he would consult the Foreign Secretary.

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 26.—The gutted remains of the Dublin Customs House present a sombre scene. The fire is still burning and the walls are expected to collapse. Hugh crowds watched the fire till they were dispersed by the police. The Customs House is now isolated by barbed wire, backed by troops.

It appears that the report of the burning of Liberty Hall is incorrect.

The Irish newspapers regard the burning of the Customs House as a blow to all prospects of peace.

London, May 26.—The results of the elections for the Irish Northern Parliament thus far announced are as follows: Unionists, 21; Nationalists, 2; Sinn Fein, 1.

MILITARY CHIEFS IN YANGTSZE FORM RIVAL ALLIANCE

Chi Shih-yuen, Of Kiangsu, To Lead Fight Against Warlords

Nankinig, May 25.—To offset the growing influence of Wang Chan-yuen, tuchun of Hupeh, who recently parleyed with the two warlords of North China, Tsao Kun and Chang Tso-lin, for a division of spoils, another military alliance has been formed by the military chiefs of three Yangtsze Provinces, Chi Shih-yuen of Kiangsu, Chang Wen-sung of Anhui and Chen Kwan-yuen of Kiangsi.

Chi, the leader of the new entanglement, has been opposed to playing second fiddle in this province since the untimely death of Li Shun, his master and beneficiary, and has been for the last several months moving heaven and earth to bring Peking to see the necessity of abolishing the Inspector-Generalship of Kiangsu, Anhui and Kiangsi.

At last, he has succeeded in completing a scheme whereby the three chiefs will resist any other militarist who seek to hold an office higher than themselves in their provinces. This will mean a great deal to Chi Shih-yuen especially, because he can now also resist any attempt that may be made by Lu Yung-hsiang, the Chekiang Tuchun, to rule over him. Lu's defiant attitude towards Peking on the election issue is still causing the Central administration some anxiety and it is rumored that Peking may yield on this point and compromise with him by appointing him Inspector-General of Chekiang and Kiangsu.

The new agreement as signed by Chi and representatives of Anhui and Kiangsi reads in part.

"For the sake of the peace and order of Kiangsu, Anhui and Kiangsi and the protection of the people of these provinces, the Tuchuns have agreed to work together in harmony for the suppression of bandits along their frontiers by joint armed forces.

"Regarding the post of the Inspector-General, as the late Tuchun Li Shun did not assume his additional office and there is, in accordance with the wishes of the peoples of the three provinces, no necessity for it, the Tuchuns of Kiangsu, Anhui and Kiangsi will combine their forces to oppose the appointment of any new official for same in the future."

HUPEH ELECTIONS

GEN. WOOD FINDS JEKYLLS—HYDES IN PHILIPPINES

CONFERENCES GRANTED

Many Citizens Afraid To Express Views Publicly

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, May 26.—General Leonard Wood and Mr. Forbes will return to Manila on the 31st instant. They find that most of the speakers who address them in the Northern Provinces ask for independence, with a protectorate if possible. Mr. Harrison's administration was criticised by a senatorial candidate, who is urging the reappointment of Mr. Forbes as Governor-General.

Apparently many speakers are telling the mission privately the direct opposite of what they express publicly. General Wood and Mr. Forbes are both granting many conferences to citizens who are afraid to express their real sentiments in public.

M'TYEIRE SCHOOL TO LAY STONE FOR NEW 'DORM' TODAY

Ceremony Will Take Place At No. 1 Edinburgh Road—Play Coming

A further step toward the realisation of the building plans for McTyeire School will be taken today when the cornerstone for the new dormitory is laid this afternoon at 1 Edinburgh Road. The building, which was designed by Mr. R. A. Curry, architect, will follow in its arrangements the plan of similar structures in women's colleges at home. It is to contain approximately two hundred rooms, a social hall, two dining-rooms, offices, an infirmary, and other accommodations for boarding-school life.

McTyeire School, named in honor of Bishop H. N. McTyeire of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, is one of the best-known educational institutions in China. It is especially famous for being the alma mater of a large number of women whose husbands hold high positions in diplomatic or official life. The training given fits the graduates to adapt themselves to western society without foreignising them to the extent of causing them to lose touch with China.

When the school was opened by Miss Laura Askew Haygood in 1891, it was the pioneer institution for the higher education of Chinese girls. Despite the conservatism of thirty years ago regarding the status of women, Reverend Young J. Allen, veteran missionary of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, conceived the idea of establishing an institution giving them the same scholastic advantage as men. After passing through the numerous difficulties incidental to a radical project, the institution developed into a preparatory school of the highest American standard, its growth being due largely to the devoted work of Miss Helen Lee Richardson, who succeeded Miss Haygood, and other members of the faculty.

The rapid lengthening of the school roster created a housing problem that has been with the institution almost from the beginning. In 1916, it acquired a plot of ground with a large residence at 1 Edinburgh Road, which has since been adapted to use as a high-school. The lower grades continued their work as before on Hankow Road.

Last year another unit was added to the campus by the erection of a faculty home on the new site. The dormitory, which is the second step in the building plan, will afford accommodations for 300 girls. Its completion will make possible the moving of the grammar school to Edinburgh Road, leaving only the kindergarten and four primary grades on the Hankow Road property. The fourth unit to be added will probably be an auditorium, followed by a modern school building.

A financial campaign to make possible the realisation of the plans for the expansion of the school is being carried on by faculty and students. The senior class of twenty-one girls has pledged 5,000 taels, part of which it is hoping to raise by the staging of Maeterlinck's "Blue Bird" at the Lyceum Theater, on the evening of June first and second, and the afternoon and evening of June third. Relativity Explained By Prof. Robertson, That Is: Relatively Explained

The Amount Of Explanation Absorbed By Each Listener At Martyr's Hall Depended On His Individual Ability As A Grasper

BY ELSIE McCORMICK

Once in the distant days when we went to school, we acquired some quicksilver which we parked in the pencil trough of our desk. Just how we got it we don't remember—probably we broke the class thermometer—but at any rate we spent many busy hours trying to pick it up. First [illegible] then we attempted to scoop it up in paper, and we later experimented with our handkerchief. But every time victory seemed close at hand, the quicksilver eluded us again by sifting through the containers and lay, lustrously tantalising, in the pencil trough. We were kept so busy over it that we forget our usual recreation of putting the braid of the little girl in front of us into the inkwell.

Last night, as we listened to Professor C. H. Robertson lecture on "The Theory of Relativity" under the auspices of the Rotary Club, we were reminded again of our attempts to gather up the mercury. Every time we almost picked up an idea, it sifted through our gray matter somehow and began to swim in ether.

Altogether it was a large evening. The figures quoted sounded like John D. Rockefeller's income tax, and the lecturer seemed to take the walls away from space and give the audience a glimpse of limitless worlds revolving restlessly in a universe without time. In closing the speaker remarked that the audience was a long way from home. It was. About that time we were sitting on one of the rings of Saturn, dangling our feet in space and letting the ether current blow our hair out of curl.

A POP EYED AUDIENCE

Martyrs' Memorial Hall was crowded to the topmost gallery seat with an audience that breathlessly watched the experiments and wrestled with ideas so vast that few could catch more than a slice of them. While some of the auditors wore the expression of people at a church social who are wondering when the dancing will begin, the majority seemed interested in taking the universe apart to find out what makes it tick.

The theory of relativity grew out of attempts to answer the question, "Where are we going and how fast are we getting there?" In order to illustrate the deceptiveness of trying to calculate speed, Mr. Robertson swung a ball a few feet and then explained that considering the motion of the earth, it had traveled some 50,000 feet farther than members of the audience had estimated. The speaker then afterwards showed the effect of gravity on weight, emphasising the possibility of obtaining more accurate notions of relative heaviness by swinging the body on a pendulum and timing the oscillation, light bodies swinging most rapidly.

As a further step in leading up to his subject, Mr. Robertson showed the audience a group of playful electrons chasing each other through a glass tube after having been liberated from iron by the action of an electric current. They looked precisely like bands of light and behaved that way, but the [illegible] and they [illegible] with a magnet just to prove it. We now have a new theory as to where Moses was when the light went out. He was probably among the electrons and didn't know the difference.

OLD IDEAS OVERTURNED

Not satisfied with showing the audience that the public service corporation might be furnishing them with electrons and charging them for bona fide light, Mr. Robertson proceeded to overturn more of their ideas by stating that matter is mostly space anyway through which ether can flow like a draught in a Shanghai tram-car. He proved the porousness of a solid looking wall by ringing a bell and lighting an electric bulb from the electro-magnetic waves generated by a wireless telegraph station in the next room.

"Ether fills both empty and occupied space," the speaker declared. "It is perhaps the transmittor of gravitation and the greatest uniting factor for all physical force. Sir Oliver Lodge suggests that it is also a connecting factor in the spiritual world. If the ether of space stands still, as is supposed, velocity, mass, and other factors can be measured by it far more accurately than by the fixed stars, which are not really fixed at all, but which are hurtling through space with inconceivable speed. The so-called 'flow' of the ether is the result of bodies passing through it at a rapid speed, just as still air on a summer day is moved by the whirl of an electric fan."

The doctrine of relativity itself grew out of an experiment first considered a failure. In order to determine the velocity of the earth and the direction in which it is traveling, an apparatus was constructed consisting of four steel arms set on a tank of mercury in which a stone floated like a cork, as stones have a way of doing in mercury. We didn't find out just what the tank had to do with the experiment, but perhaps like the "K" in knee, it was just put in to make it hard. Anyway, four mirrors were arranged on the end of each arm, one of them also containing a lamp generating a sodium light and another a telescope. At the bisection of the arms, a half-silvered mirror was set diagonally to split the light ray. The general idea was a race between the two split beams of light, each of which made four round trips between the various mirrors before entering into the telescope.

FICTION WRITERS WRONG CHINESE, SAYS PUBLISHER

A. H. Scribner, Leaving After Visit, Confesses To "Eye Openers"

That China and the Chinese people have been misrepresented in Western literature is the opinion of Mr. Arthur H. Scribner of Charles Scribner's Sons Publishing Company, who is sailing for home on the Empress of Asia today after a two months' pleasure trip in the Orient.

"Much of the fiction written about the Chinese is of the type of 'Limehouse Nights,' in that it portrays the actions of the worst classes," Mr. Scribner told a China [illegible] representative yesterday. "Naturally people at home come to consider the Chinese a race of criminals and opium-smokers. My personal experience with them during my stay in the Far East has proved that they are a peculiarly appealing people who wear well on acquaintance and who have a delightful spirit of friendliness spiced by a keen sense of humor. There is need for more Far Eastern fiction to represent the Chinese as they really are."

Mr. Scribner stated that though the Far East is still extremely remote to a large part of the reading public at home, articles about the problems here are finding a readier welcome on the literary market than ever before.

"Since the war, Americans have shown a tendency to neglect fiction for more serious reading," the noted publisher said. "The world has suddenly become larger to them, and they find that questions in the Far East may have a very definite effect upon themselves. Therefore they are reading with new interest articles on economic, social, and political factors in the Orient."

Though Mr. Scribner's visit to the Orient is primarily a holiday he has given much time to observing conditions here and in Japan.

"One of the things that impressed me most is the vast importance of Shanghai as a commercial center," Mr. Scribner said. "I came into the city by way of Hankow and was amazed at the extent of the traffic on the Yangtsze. There is no doubt that the country has priceless natural resources. Her greatest need is for a stable government and for the growth of a patriotic sentiment. Until the government is stabilised, I believe that the Consortium should be extremely cautious in advancing capital for railroads or other development projects."

Before visiting China, Mr. and Mrs. Scribner spent three weeks in Japan. "Japan is beautiful from the scenic standpoint, but it entirely lacks the impressiveness of China," the publisher said. "I was glad that I visited it first, as I was better able to appreciate the vastness of this country and its enormous latent power."

Allied Loans To U.S. To Be Funded

CONFIDENCE IN BRIAND IS VOTED BY DEPUTIES

French Premier Sustained By Chamber, 390 To 162

PRAISES ALLIES

"Made More Concessions Than We Have," He Says

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 26.—The Chamber of Deputies today passed a vote of confidence in the Premier, M. Briand, by 390 votes to 162.

Paris, May 26.—Prior to the Chamber of Deputies' passing the vote of confidence in the Government, M. Briand again interposed in the resumed foreign policy debate, in the course of which, replying to ex-Minister Klotz, who asked the Premier if he did not think that France had already made too many concessions to Great Britain, he said: "Our Allies have made as many, perhaps more, to us."

The Chamber passed the vote of confidence after an overwhelming defeat of a motion of the ex-Minister of war, M. Lefevre, in favor of referring the London Agreement to a committee of the Chamber, to which M. Briand objected, as it would mean giving Parliament the right to modify the decisions of the Reparations Commission.

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

New York, May 26.—According to a message from Paris, it is stated semi-officially that France holds Germany responsible for the fighting in Upper Silesia. It is declared that if the Allies call a halt in the hostilities, the situation will become serious. Thousands of German volunteers are pouring into Upper Silesia.

Berlin, May 26.—The Chancellor, Dr. Wirth, speaking at a conference of Baden statesmen at Karlsruhe, emphasised that Germany's acceptance of the Allied ultimatum was sincere, but only performances would convince the world of Germany's goodwill, and therefore the work of reconstruction must be begun.

It would be wrong, he said, not to acknowledge the economic improvement in Germany during the past two years, and if commerce were revived through the promotion of production, the German people would have some respectable performances to show.

Referring to Upper Silesia, Dr. Wirth welcomed England's assurance of fair play.

London, May 26.—Reuter learns that the German Government's orders prohibiting the formation of irregular bands have had a most beneficial effect in Upper Silesia, where fighting has practically ceased.

London, May 26.—The War Office announces that the first of the four British infantry battalions which are being despatched to Upper Silesia will leave Cologne on Friday. Ultimately two Irish battalions, at present in England, will be despatched, making a toal of six. The troops will be commanded by Colonel Arthur Grenfell who was severely wounded at Magerfontein, while staff officer of General Wauchope.

Berlin, May 26.—The news of the despatch of British troops has had a pacifying influence in Upper Silesia.

Warsaw, May 26.—Prince Sapieha's resignation as Minister of Foreign Affairs has been accepted.

Fear Lives Lost In Early Morning Fire

A fierce blaze of the night occasioned a call on the Central and Hongkew divisions of the brigade when flames tore through a general store on Seward Road, near Chaufoong Road at 1:30 a.m. today with a rapidity which, it was feared, may have cost several lives. Seward Road at the point where the store is located is under repair, imposing a handicap upon the firemen, but a remarkably quick stop was effected and Chief Pett's men are to be congratulated upon the way in which they handled a difficult situation. The brigade was still at work upon the outbreak, which, however, had been effectually checked, at 2:45 o'clock this morning.

ANGLO-AMERICAN AMITY IS THEME

Harding And King George Send Messages To British War Mission's Dinner

TALK ON MORAL KINSHIP

Says America And England Will Stand Together Against Menaces To Mankind

London, April 22.—The second annual dinner and reunion of the British War Missions to the United States was held tonight in London under the Presidency of Arthur. J. Balfour. It was attended by a distinguished company, which included many Americans now in London. A greeting was sent to the King in the course of the dinner, to which his Majesty replied, expressing warm thanks and saying: "It is his Majesty's earnest hope that the happy relations and close intercourse with our kinsmen across the seas during the great war may be further extended and encouraged in days of peace." Several messages were read, including one from President Harding, who expressed his "high appreciation of the association's praiseworthy object, to promote a good understanding and better acquaintance between the peoples of the United States and Great Britain." The message added:

"Desirous as I am that friendliness and good will should always exist between the peoples of the two great English-speaking nations, I am happy to extend my greetings and best wishes to an organisation whose avowed purpose it is to contribute to this desirable end by seeking through kindliness and instruction to remove misconceptions and to bring the two peoples to a better knowledge of each other."

A message from Admiral Sims voiced his entire sympathy with all associations which had for their mission the removal of misconception regarding the United States and Great Britain and the bringing about of a more complete understanding and co-operation, for, in his opinion, the peace and prosperity of the world would not be fully assured until the English-speaking peoples were standing together for liberty, justice and the square deal.

General Pershing praised the work the association was doing to perpetuate the cordial relations developed during the war.

Lord Reading in his message said he hoped these annual dinners would continue to receive support, for in bringing together so many people who shared memories of the unfailing kindness and hospitality of the United States the union was making a valuable contribution to the high cause of Anglo-American friendship.

Mr. Balfour, in proposing the toast of "Anglo-American Amity," said he had always been a profound believer and earnest worker for that great cause.

"The more I see of the world," he said, "the more I am brought into contact in political life with statesmen of various countries, so much deeper is the conviction forced on me that we of the English-speaking peoples more readily understand each other's modes of thought, more readily accept each other's ideals, more fully comprehend the instinctive judgment which we pass on contemporary events, than the statesmen of any other two countries. If that is true, and I firmly believe it is, then surely Anglo-American amity stands in no danger. We know perfectly well the sort of differences which have arisen since that unhappy struggle which turned the English-speaking colonies into the great United States of America.

"Those difficulties are real; they are played upon by all sorts of alien forces. Nevertheless, beneath and beyond all these forces—perhaps I ought to say above them—there is this fundamental and intellectual and moral similarity which, unless our affairs are more grossly mismanaged in the future than they have been in the past, convinces me that the wishes expressed by the King will be fulfilled, and that at no distant date the peoples and statesmen of the two countries will feel that whenever the destinies of the world are in danger, whenever perils around us begin seriously to menace the interests of mankind, England and America will be found on the same side, fighting the same battle and fighting it with the same success as they were united together in the great war which has recently been concluded."

One of the features of the evening was a speech by a young Harvard man named Grant, who is now at Cambridge University. He made an excellent impression upon the company and was afterward complimented by Mr. Balfour.

STEVENS SAILS TODAY

Mr. Frodrick W. Stevens, representative of the American group of the Banking Consortium, and Mrs. Stevens and his secretary, Mr. J. Relativity Explained By Prof. Robertson

makes poorer time than one going the same distance across it was believed that the beam going with the ether drift would enter the telescope behind the other. As the velocity of light is known, the experimenters hoped in this way to calculate the speed of the earth through the indirect method of timing the other drift fanned by its motion.

After sitting at the telescope for several hours of each day during a period of months, the experimenters awoke to the fact that nature was playing a practical joke on them. Both light rays arrived at exactly the same time, neither getting a bad mark for tardiness through all the long periods of waiting.

Evidently something was radically wrong. The experimenters worried over the unreasonableness of the light rays until a Dutch physicist stated the up and down light ray must have overcome is handicap somewhere en route and advanced the astounding theory that the steel arms shortened when in the flow of the ether drift. Though there was an inclination at first to laugh this notion out of court, Dr. Albert Einstein seized upon it, developed it, and supported it by a number of experiments.

MEASURING SYSTEMS UPSET

According to Dr. Einstein's views, objects are different lengths at different times. A man in the ether drift is considerably shorter than he will be a few hours later when the revolution of the earth puts him in the cross stream. The trouble is that nobody observes the difference because the eye of the beholder is likewise in the drift and is therefore shortened also. This idea absolutely upsets all present modes of measuring and all notions of the stability of size. We know personally that we are usually shorter at the end of the month than any other time, but we never before attributed this to the doctrine of relativity.

The same doctrine applies to time. In other words, the time of an event depends likewise on velocity and whether the observer is traveling toward or away from it. Mr. Robertson illustrated this by an example of a man traveling on a train between two flashes of lightening. The flash toward which he is going will seem to occur first, even if the two are actually simultaneous.

That material objects are mostly ether, that time and space are merely relative, depending on many other factors, and that light and electricity have weight, and that everything from cabbages to kings are made out of electrons were some of the observations of the evening. It gave the audience a sense of loneliness, somehow, a feeling of living in the ether drift of an incomprehensible eternity, in which time and space are chimerical and matter is emptiness.

Anyway, we're glad we went. Next time a bill is presented to us, we'll tell the shroff that we are in a different velocity and the first of the month hasn't caught up with us yet. We hope, however, that our tailor who is fond of acquiring material wasn't there, as he would tell us hereafter that our goods were cut off in the other flow and are therefore lots shorter than they ought to be. Maybe that was what was the matter with the bathing suits at Henli.

China Invited To Road Conference

Peking, May 26.—Mr. Chen Lu the Chinese Minister in Paris, reports that an International Public Roads Conference will shortly be held in Paris and that China has been invited to send a delegate. The Government has instructed Mr. Chen Lu to select a member of the Legation staff, or some other personage now in Europe, to represent China on the Conference. The Government requests Mr. Chen Lu to instruct the delegate to report fully on the proceedings of the Conference to the Government in view of the vital interest of the Public Roads question in China.

Peking, May 26.—It is reported that the negotiations for the revision of the Commercial Treaty between China and Mexico are not proceeding smoothly. The negotiations, which are being carried on between Mr. Wang Chi-tseng, the Chinese Minister to Mexico, and the Mexican Foreign Office, have been delayed owing to hesitation on the part of the Mexican Government to agree to the revision of the clause concerning Chinese immigrants. Fire Brigade Makes Quick Check On Blaze In Banking District

A fire which threatened serious proportions was checked last night by the Fire Brigade when they surrounded and held to a surprisingly well confined space an outbreak in the banking district on Tientsin Road.

The fire was discovered by Police Sub-Inspector M. Lavelle shortly after 6:30 p.m. and the alarm was turned in to Central station, which department turned out in record time. Chief Officer Pett and Assistant Gilhooley directed the work. The blaze was found to have originated in a silver smelting hong at Q12 Tientsin Road. The flames broke through the roof almost immediately, the fire having started on the upper floor and the firemen on arrival quickly mounted the surrounding roofs and poured a barrage of water into the affected area. The outbreak, having occurred in the centre of the block, was extremely difficult of access but the firemen fought their way in to the heart of it and their efforts were rewarded by an admirable stop. This was particularly commendable in view of the fact that the water pressure when the Brigade first came into action was entirely inadequate, more air than water being forced through the hoses. In spite of this handicap the Chief Officer and his men had the fire well under control within twenty minutes of work, confining the bulk of the damage to three buildings, only parts of each being affected.

The work at the fire was handicapped by one of the machines, a combination chemical and water pumping mechanism, running into a soft spot on the Kiangse Road—where a main had recently been laid—and sinking in to the hubs, nearly capsizing the car and putting it definitely out of service insofar as the Tientsin Road outbreak was concerned.

A remarkable feature was the fact that the Brigade, with the efficient assistance of the police from Central station were able to keep the surrounding important streets open for traffic practically throughout the entire time of the fire.

Alleges Violation Of Contract, Sues

Suit on an employment contract was begun yesterday in the United States Court for China against the American Trading Company by Mr. P. C. Gibbons who seeks to recover the sum of Gold $3,600 and Gold $1,200 to cover transportation for himself and family from Shanghai to New York.

The petition alleges that the contract agreement was entered into on December 12, 1918 and the plaintiff asserts that by the terms of this contract the American Trading Company agreed to employ him for a term of four years at a salary of Gold $2,400 a year payable at an exchange rate of 55 gold cents to the tael. It was also agreed, the petitioner asserts, that the company should pay transportation for the plaintiff and his family to Shanghai and back to New York at the termination of the contract period.

The plaintiff says he carried out his part of the contract until May 25, 1921 when he was discharged.

Court Of Inquiry Sits At Alexandria

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 25.—The latest news from Egypt reports that all is quiet in Alexandria. Telephonic communication between Alexandria and Cairo, which was severed yesterday, has been partially restored.

The general uneasiness prevailing in Cairo was exemplified by the closing of shops, owing to the fear of an attack, but the alarm was apparently unnecessary. It is stated, however, that no further British forces will be repatriated from Egypt till the situation clears.

The Arsenal and railway shop workers in Cairo have struck work, and a general railway strike is threatened.

In the House of Commons today, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, stated that order had been restored in Alexandria, and that a court of enquiry had been opened.

Alexandria, May 25.—A Government cotton store is on fire. Ten thousand bales are involved.

LATER...

London, May 27.—The Egyptian Nationalist leader, Zaghloul Pasha, who is held indirectly responsible for the recent outbreaks in Egypt, has issued a belated appeal to the people to "restrain their righteous anger against the Ministry" and to cease demonstrations. Zaghloul Pasha endeavours to saddle the authorities with responsibility for the recent disorders.

Meanwhile the threatened railway strike in Cairo has not materialised, but 2,500 striking railway shop workers have been dismissed and even if they are reinstated will forfeit certain right

1919 Submarine Program In U.S. To Be Continued

Washington, May 26.—The Senate has adopted an amendment to the Naval Appropriatio Bill, authorising the expenditure or submarine construction o part of the $90,000,000 for continuing the 1919 construction program. Senator Poindexte said he would give the Navy Department discretion to contrac for possibly the entire six submarines previously authorised, the construction of which had bee deferred.

U.S. Likely To Win In Dutch Oil Case

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 27.—The Amsterdam correspondent of the Morning Post states that there is a growing belief in political circles in The Hague that the First Chamber of the States General will reject the Djambi Oilfields Bill, thus enabling the Government to introduce a new bill granting part of the Djambi fields to the Standard Oil Company. The Second Chamber intends to criticize the Government's failure to disclose the contents of the notes which were exchanged between Holland and the United States when the bill was debated.

RESIST WAGE CUTS

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 26.—All the cotton operatives' organisations have decided at Manchester to co-operate in resisting the employers' demand for a 30 percent reduction in wages, and to approach the employers for a reopening of negotiations.

"PURSE STRINGS"

The company gave a repeat performance of the above play last night to a small, but appreciative house.

Despite the fact that much of the first act was lost, owing to the inevitable Shanghai latecomers who seem to think it good form to spoil the enjoyment of other people, the dialogue took hold of the audience from the start, and the play was fully appreciated as it worked itself out.

The cast were at home in the play, but the prompter had his share of the work to do. Mr. Charles Quartermaine as the obstinate but well meaning husband was quite convincing; it is just the part that suits him, and Mr. Frederick Amerley was equally good as the clever K. C. Of the ladies Miss Rita Ricardo seemed most at home in her part of fascinating widow and common sense friend. Miss Jeannette Sherwin only seemed to be at her best in the third act.

A taking little play with some excellent lines in it. W.R.

War Criminal Gets 10 Months In Jail

(Reuter's Service)

Leipzig, May 26.—Sergeant Heynen, whose case was the first before the court for the trial of war criminals, and who was charged with the ill-treatment of prisoners of war at Herne Camp, has been sentenced to 10 months' imprisonment.

In the second trial, which has opened, the accused is Captain Emil Mueller, a lawyer of Karlsruhe, who was formerly Commandant of the prisoners' camp at Flavy-le-Martel, in France. Captain Mueller is charged with brutality towards British prisoners of war, and responsibility for the appalling insanitariness of the camp, which ended in an outbreak of diphtheria, from which two hundred prisoners died.

Tariff Dangerous Senator Warns

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Washington, May 26.—Speaking in the Senate, Senator King, of Utah, uttered a warning to the business men of the country. He said: "If they keep on trying to destroy competition in business by tariffs and combines, which challenge the right of consumers to live, we shall have Socialism to face." He urged a congressional investigation into what was going on in the lobbies of the national capital, particularly the efforts which, he said, were being made by the dyers' interests to get tariff legislation.

SINO-ITALIAN BANK

A Reuter message from Peking dated May 22, and issued to the press in Shanghai on May 24 is announcing that the Chen Yi Bank was about to open for business in the Legation Quarter, described this bank as "late the Sino-Italian Bank."

Mr. G. Giachino, Manager of the Sino-Italian Bank, Shanghai, writes to state that the Chen Yi Bank has nothing to do with the Sino-Italian Bank, which does not comtemplate any changes either in Peking or elsewhere.

dents are talking part in this ambitious performance. The ingenuity of the cast and of Miss Clara Park, the director, has been taxed by the many difficulties in staging, but appropriate settings have been worked out even for the scene in which the graves turn into banks of flowers and for the misty blue Land of the Unborn Children. The long cast of characters is headed by Miss Chu Tsung E, who plays Tyityl, Miss Tseu Mei Yuin, who will appear as Myityl, Miss Chang Me Li, who is to play the role of Light, and Miss Dan Tsung Wo, cast for the part of the Fairy Berylune.

Tickets may be secured at Squire, Bingham Company and at the school premises on 21 Hankow Road.

Yap Question No Nearer Settlement

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 26.—In the House of Commons today, Captain Ormsby-Gore asked whether further communications had passed between the British, American and Japanese Governments on the subject of Yap; whether the dispute was any nearer a settlement, and, if so, what arrangement had been reached in regard to the working of the cable junction at Yap.

The Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, stated that the situation was substantially the same as on April 14, and added that that discussion of the subject in the House would not be conductive to any prospect of a settlement which would be satisfactory to the parties concerned.

Captain Ormsby-Gore then asked whether the statement in the press that the matter had been settled was true.

Mr. Harmsworth replied that he hoped it was in process of settlement, but did not think it should be discussed.

Oxford Does Well With Australians

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 26.—Rain interfered with today's play in the Australians' match against Oxford University. The visitors, whose overnight score in their first innings was 217 for eight wickets, brought their total up to 294, all out.

The 'Varsity, who were 114 in arrears on the first innings, gave a fine display in their second venture, scoring 174 for one wicket before stumps were drawn. The second wicket had then produced 149 runs. The not-out batsmen were Jardine, who made 96 without giving a chance, his hits including 12 fours, and Holdsworth, whose score was 57. The match, being only a two-days' fixture, was drawn.

U.S. Emergency Tariff Will Affect Firms Here

Enactment of the Young Emergency Tariff Act, originally the Fordney bill, which has passed both houses of Congress at Washington will affect certain commercial interests in the Far East and the report from Washington that the President has signed the measure is now being awaited.

It is believed that rates of duty on agricultural products will become effective as soon as the President signs the bill. In the following extracts from the first section of the act, received recently from Washington by the American Consulate, the new schedule of these rates together with existing rates are given.

The Young Emergency Tariff Act, introduced into the 66th Congress as the Fordney Bill, was passed by the House of Representatives of the United States on April 15 and by the Senate on May 11, 1921. The Senate amended the provisions of the bill relating to the dumping of foreign merchandise in the markets of the United States, and regulating the value of foreign currency. The text of these amended provisions has not been received in Shanghai.

The new rates of duty on certain agricultural products, which will be in effect from the passage of the new measure, are included in the following extract from the first section of the Act. For purpose of comparison the existing rates of duty are noted in parentheses.

EMERGENCY TARIFF

On and after the day following the passage of this Act, for the period of six months, there shall be levied, upon the following articles, when imported from any foreign country into the United States or into any of its possessions (except the Philippine Islands, the Virgin Island, and the islands of Guam and Tutuila) the rates of duty prescribed by this section, namely:

1. Wheat, 35 cents per bushel (free*) 2. Wheat flour and semolina, 20 per centum ad valorem (free*).

3. Flaxseed, 30 cents per bushel of fifty-six pounds. (20c).

4. Corn or maize, 15 cents per bushel of fifty-six pounds. (free)

6. Peanuts or ground beans, cents per pound. (In Shells 3-8c per lb. Kernels 3-4 per lb.)

7. Potatoes, 25 cents per bushel of sixty pounds. (free*).

8. Onions, 40 cents per bushel of fifty-seven pounds. (20c).

9. Rice, cleaned, 2 cents per pound, (1c) except rice cleaned for use in the manufacture of canned foods, on which the rate of duty shall be 1 cent per pound; uncleaned rice, or rice free of the outer hull and still having the inner cuticle on, 1¾ cents per pound (5-8 of 1c); rice flour and rice meal, and rice broken which will pass through a number twelve wire sieve of a kind prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, one-fourth of 1 cent per pound (no change); paddy or rice having the outer hull on three-fourths of 1 cent per pound (3-8 of 1c).

Moscow Starving Says Riga Report

(Reuter's Service)

New York, May 26.—According to a Riga despatch, the population of Moscow are nearing starvation. Owing to the peasants' refusing to sell their corn, the workers are leaving the city to hunt for food in the villages. A pound of bread sold two weeks ago for 1,300 roubles, but the price today is 3,000 roubles, while sugar is selling at 18,000 roubles a pound. High Soviet officials are importing Large quantities of food for their own use twice a week by diplomatic courier, via Esthonia.

Nanking Notes

Bishop W. A. Lewis, of Methodist Episcopal Mission, who has been traveling extensively even to inaccessible places like Szechuen, preached to a large congregation last Sunday, May 22, at the Sage Memorial Chapel.

The Annual Meeting of the Nanking Association will be held on the lawn of Dr. and J. E. Williams, May 27, at 6 p.m. Mrs. Meigs, chairman of the refreshment committee, will arrange for tables and chairs. There will be a brief business meeting and a program.

The Famine Relief Committee at Peking is appealing to Nanking for six men workers.

Mr. H. Ray Sweetman returned here last Saturday from famine area up in the north. In respone to the many inquiries on famine relief in Tingchow (Chihli) Section, he writes for the Weekly Bulletin:

The June harvest is only a 20 percent normal. This means continued suffering. Grain is already selling at more than double the pre-famine price. Many people are desperate. Sales of wives and children are constantly reported in spite of the strong efforts being made to prevent the same. Deaths from starvation are reported daily. As yet no epidemics of disease have been reported, due perhaps in part to the fact that our famine relief tends in the main to keep people at home rather than to mass them together in refuge soup kitchens, etc.

Last Sunday, the fifteenth, the day of the fourth month of the Chinese calendar, being the date for the Country Fair Day in Nanking, thousands of farmers gathered at the Tsiang Wang Miao, one mile outside of the Taiping Gate. Many shows of farmers' implements, woodenware, and chinaware were on exhibit. Chinese plays were performed and attended by many spectators.

Hongkong House Rates To Be Cut

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, May 27.—The Government, replying to a petition, backed by a crowded meeting for the rescission of the increase in house rates from 13 to 20 percent, announces that it has decided to introduce a resolution in the Legislative Council, rescinding its previous resolution, enforcing the increase.

Chinese Students Eagerly Sought By Three Nations

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 23.—A three cornered race between the leading nations of the world is rapidly developing, the goal being the honor of educating the larger percentage of China's advanced students. Advices from New York, Paris and London all tell of efforts to induce more Chinese students to take post graduate courses abroad and it is likely that in the next year the three nations will offer unusual advantages to students from China. It is now felt that no nation can rightfully expect to advance her friendship, her commercial and other relations with a nation like China unless she can appeal to a large number of graduates who understand her methods and her motives.

America which has always had a large number of these students is now to meet keen competition on the part of England and France. England is planning a general scheme of encouraging the Chinese to study in her great universities and France already has 2,200 there. Of these 2,000 are paying their own way either with funds received from home or by taking employment. The strides France has made since the war has awakened both England and America.

'Invulnerables' No Match For Bandits

(China Press Correspondence)

Hsuchowfu, Ku., May 24.—Interesting reports have come to us of the organisation of certain secret societies to the west of Hsuchowfu. The first called the "Red Spear Society" was organised more than a year ago, and later there came the "White Spear Society." The purpose of these organisations was said to be protection against the robber bands. They have some sort of secret creed, one article of which was that they would be invulnerable.

The robbers, however, showed them otherwise for in their first fight the Red Spears came off with 20 or 30 dead and wounded. These societies were anxious to fight with the soldiers against the robbers but the officials have not permitted this and are discouraging their activities.

Work on the Lung Hai R.R. extension to Haichow is well under way. The road-bed is being rapidly built up and the rails have been laid for a short distance. Large quantities of supplies are on hand.

The Chief Engineer and an assistant from Holland have arrived, and houses are being prepared for several others who are to come in the fall. A hospital is also to be built and will be in charge of a foreign physician.

Harding And King George Send Messages To British War Mission's Dinner

TALK ON MORAL KINSHIP

Says America And England Will Stand Together Against Menaces To Mankind

London, April 22.—The second annual dinner and reunion of the British War Missions to the United States was held tonight in London under the Presidency of Arthur. J. Balfour. It was attended by a distinguished company, which included many Americans now in London. A greeting was sent to the King in the course of the dinner, to which his Majesty replied, expressing warm thanks and saying: "It is his Majesty's earnest hope that the happy relations and close intercourse with our kinsmen across the seas during the great war may be further extended and encouraged in days of peace." Several messages were read, including one from President Harding, who expressed his "high appreciation of the association's praiseworthy object, to promote a good understanding and better acquaintance between the peoples of the United States and Great Britain." The message added:

"Desirous as I am that friendliness and good will should always exist between the peoples of the two great English-speaking nations, I am happy to extend my greetings and best wishes to an organisation whose avowed purpose it is to contribute to this desirable end by seeking through kindliness and instruction to remove misconceptions and to bring the two peoples to a better knowledge of each other."

A message from Admiral Sims voiced his entire sympathy with all associations which had for their mission the removal of misconception regarding the United States and Great Britain and the bringing about of a more complete understanding and co-operation, for, in his opinion, the peace and prosperity of the world would not be fully assured until the English-speaking peoples were standing together for liberty, justice and the square deal.

General Pershing praised the work the association was doing to perpetuate the cordial relations developed during the war.

Lord Reading in his message said he hoped these annual dinners would continue to receive support, for in bringing together so many people who shared memories of the unfailing kindness and hospitality of the United States the union was making a valuable contribution to the high cause of Anglo-American friendship.

Mr. Balfour, in proposing the toast of "Anglo-American Amity," said he had always been a profound believer and earnest worker for that great cause.

"The more I see of the world," he said, "the more I am brought into contact in political life with statesmen of various countries, so much deeper is the conviction forced on me that we of the English-speaking peoples more readily understand each other's modes of thought, more readily accept each other's ideals, more fully comprehend the instinctive judgment which we pass on contemporary events, than the statesmen of any other two countries. If that is true, and I firmly believe it is, then surely Anglo-American amity stands in no danger. We know perfectly well the sort of differences which have arisen since that unhappy struggle which turned the English-speaking colonies into the great United States of America.

"Those difficulties are real; they are played upon by all sorts of alien forces. Nevertheless, beneath and beyond all these forces—perhaps I ought to say above them—there is this fundamental and intellectual and moral similarity which, unless our affairs are more grossly mismanaged in the future than they have been in the past, convinces me that the wishes expressed by the King will be fulfilled, and that at no distant date the peoples and statesmen of the two countries will feel that whenever the destinies of the world are in danger, whenever perils around us begin seriously to menace the interests of mankind, England and America will be found on the same side, fighting the same battle and fighting it with the same success as they were united together in the great war which has recently been concluded."

One of the features of the evening was a speech by a young Harvard man named Grant, who is now at Cambridge University. He made an excellent impression upon the company and was afterward complimented by Mr. Balfour.

Relativity Explained By Prof. Robertson

makes poorer time than one going the same distance across it was believed that the beam going with the ether drift would enter the telescope behind the other. As the velocity of light is known, the experimenters hoped in this way to calculate the speed of the earth through the indirect method of timing the other drift fanned by its motion.

After sitting at the telescope for several hours of each day during a period of months, the experimenters awoke to the fact that nature was playing a practical joke on them. Both light rays arrived at exactly the same time, neither getting a bad mark for tardiness through all the long periods of waiting.

Evidently something was radically wrong. The experimenters worried over the unreasonableness of the light rays until a Dutch physicist stated the up and down light ray must have overcome is handicap somewhere en route and advanced the astounding theory that the steel arms shortened when in the flow of the ether drift. Though there was an inclination at first to laugh this notion out of court, Dr. Albert Einstein seized upon it, developed it, and supported it by a number of experiments.

MEASURING SYSTEMS UPSET

According to Dr. Einstein's views, objects are different lengths at different times. A man in the ether drift is considerably shorter than he will be a few hours later when the revolution of the earth puts him in the cross stream. The trouble is that nobody observes the difference because the eye of the beholder is likewise in the drift and is therefore shortened also. This idea absolutely upsets all present modes of measuring and all notions of the stability of size. We know personally that we are usually shorter at the end of the month than any other time, but we never before attributed this to the doctrine of relativity.

The same doctrine applies to time. In other words, the time of an event depends likewise on velocity and whether the observer is traveling toward or away from it. Mr. Robertson illustrated this by an example of a man traveling on a train between two flashes of lightening. The flash toward which he is going will seem to occur first, even if the two are actually simultaneous.

That material objects are mostly ether, that time and space are merely relative, depending on many other factors, and that light and electricity have weight, and that everything from cabbages to kings are made out of electrons were some of the observations of the evening. It gave the audience a sense of loneliness, somehow, a feeling of living in the ether drift of an incomprehensible eternity, in which time and space are chimerical and matter is emptiness.

Anyway, we're glad we went. Next time a bill is presented to us, we'll tell the shroff that we are in a different velocity and the first of the month hasn't caught up with us yet. We hope, however, that our tailor who is fond of acquiring material wasn't there, as he would tell us hereafter that our goods were cut off in the other flow and are therefore lots shorter than they ought to be. Maybe that was what was the matter with the bathing suits at Henli.

Mexico Balks At Immigrant Clause In Pact With China

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 26.—It is reported that the negotiations for the revision of the Commercial Treaty between China and Mexico are not proceeding smoothly. The negotiations, which are being carried on between Mr. Wang Chi-tseng, the Chinese Minister to Mexico, and the Mexican Foreign Office, have been delayed owing to hesitation on the part of the Mexican Government to agree to the revision of the clause concerning Chinese immigrants. The revision is intended to secure better safeguards for Chinese immigra[illegible]

Fire Brigade Makes Quick Check On Blaze In Banking District

A fire which threatened serious proportions was checked last night by the Fire Brigade when they surrounded and held to a surprisingly well confined space an outbreak in the banking district on Tientsin Road.

The fire was discovered by Police Sub-Inspector M. Lavelle shortly after 6:30 p.m. and the alarm was turned in to Central station, which department turned out in record time. Chief Officer Pett and Assistant Gilhooley directed the work. The blaze was found to have originated in a silver smelting hong at Q12 Tientsin Road. The flames broke through the roof almost immediately, the fire having started on the upper floor and the firemen on arrival quickly mounted the surrounding roofs and poured a barrage of water into the affected area. The outbreak, having occurred in the centre of the block, was extremely difficult of access but the firemen fought their way in to the heart of it and their efforts were rewarded by an admirable stop. This was particularly commendable in view of the fact that the water pressure when the Brigade first came into action was entirely inadequate, more air than water being forced through the hoses. In spite of this handicap the Chief Officer and his men had the fire well under control within twenty minutes of work, confining the bulk of the damage to three buildings, only parts of each being affected.

The work at the fire was handicapped by one of the machines, a combination chemical and water pumping mechanism, running into a soft spot on the Kiangse Road—where a main had recently been laid—and sinking in to the hubs, nearly capsizing the car and putting it definitely out of service insofar as the Tientsin Road outbreak was concerned.

A remarkable feature was the fact that the Brigade, with the efficient assistance of the police from Central station were able to keep the surrounding important streets open for traffic practically throughout the entire time of the fire.

Alleges Violation Of Contract, Sues

Suit on an employment contract was begun yesterday in the United States Court for China against the American Trading Company by Mr. P. C. Gibbons who seeks to recover the sum of Gold $3,600 and Gold $1,200 to cover transportation for himself and family from Shanghai to New York.

The petition alleges that the contract agreement was entered into on December 12, 1918 and the plaintiff asserts that by the terms of this contract the American Trading Company agreed to employ him for a term of four years at a salary of Gold $2,400 a year payable at an exchange rate of 55 gold cents to the tael. It was also agreed, the petitioner asserts, that the company should pay transportation for the plaintiff and his family to Shanghai and back to New York at the termination of the contract period.

The plaintiff says he carried out his part of the contract until May 25, 1921 when he was discharged.

Court Of Inquiry Sits At Alexandria

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 25.—The latest news from Egypt reports that all is quiet in Alexandria. Telephonic communication between Alexandria and Cairo, which was severed yesterday, has been partially restored.

The general uneasiness prevailing in Cairo was exemplified by the closing of shops, owing to the fear of an attack, but the alarm was apparently unnecessary. It is stated, however, that no further British forces will be repatriated from Egypt till the situation clears.

The Arsenal and railway shop workers in Cairo have struck work, and a general railway strike is threatened.

In the House of Commons today, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, stated that order had been restored in Alexandria, and that a court of enquiry had been opened.

Alexandria, May 25.—A Government cotton store is on fire. Ten thousand bales are involved.

[illegible] FIY...

London, May 27.—The Egyptian Nationalist leader, Zaghloul Pasha, who is held indirectly responsible for the recent outbreaks in Egypt, has issued a belated appeal to the people to "restrain their righteous anger against the Ministry" and to cease demonstrations. Zaghloul Pasha endeavours to saddle the authorities with responsibility for the recent disorders.

Meanwhile the threatened railway strike in Cairo has not materialised, but 2,500 striking railway shop workers have been dismissed and even if they are reinstated will forfeit certain rights.

1919 Submarine Program In U.S. To Be Continued

U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter

Washington, May 26.—The Senate has adopted an amendment to the Naval Appropriation Bill, authorising the expenditure for submarine construction as part of the $90,000,000 for continuing the 1919 construction program. Senator Poindexter said he would give the Navy Department discretion to contract for possibly the entire six submarines previously authorised, the construction of which had been deferred.

U.S. Likely To Win In Dutch Oil Case

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 27.—The Amsterdam correspondent of the Morning Post states that there is a growing belief in political circles in The Hague that the First Chamber of the States General will reject the Djambi Oilfields Bill, thus enabling the Government to introduce a new bill granting part of the Djambi fields to the Standard Oil Company. The Second Chamber intends to criticize the Government's failure to disclose the contents of the notes which were exchanged between Holland and the United States when the bill was debated.

RESIST WAGE CUTS

"PURSE STRINGS"

The company gave a repeat performance of the above play last night to a small, but appreciative house.

Despite the fact that much of the first act was lost, owing to the inevitable Shanghai latecomers who seem to think it good form to spoil the enjoyment of other people, the dialogue took hold of the audience from the start, and the play was fully appreciated as it worked itself out.

The cast were at home in the play, but the prompter had his share of the work to do. Mr. Charles Quartermaine as the obstinate but well meaning husband was quite convincing; it is just the part that suits him, and Mr. Frederick Amerley was equally good as the clever K. C. Of the ladies Miss Rita Ricardo seemed most at home in her part of fascinating widow and common sense friend. Miss Jeannette Sherwin only seemed to be at her best in the third act.

A taking little play with some excellent lines in it. W.R.

War Criminal Gets 10 Months In Jail

(Reuter's Service)

Leipzig, May 26.—Sergeant Heynen, whose case was the first before the court for the trial of war criminals, and who was charged with the ill-treatment of prisoners of war at Herne Camp, has been sentenced to 10 months' imprisonment.

In the second trial, which has opened, the accused is Captain Emil Mueller, a lawyer of Karlsruhe, who was formerly Commandant of the prisoners' camp at Flavy-le-Martel, in France. Captain Mueller is charged with brutality towards British prisoners of war, and responsibility for the appalling insanitariness of the camp, which ended in an outbreak of diphtheria, from which two hundred prisoners died.

Tariff Dangerous Senator Warns

U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Washington, May 26.—Speaking in the Senate, Senator King, of Utah, uttered a warning to the business men of the country. He said: "If they keep on trying to destroy competition in business by tariffs and combines, which challenge the right of consumers to live, we shall have Socialism to face." He urged a congressional investigation into what was going on in the lobbies of the national capital, particularly the efforts which, he said, were being made by the dyers' interests to get tariff legislation.

SINO-ITALIAN BANK

A Reuter message from Peking dated May 22, and issued to the press in Shanghai on May 24 is announcing that the Chen Yi Bank was about to open for business in the Legation Quarter, described this bank as "late the Sino-Italian Bank."

Mr. G. Giachino, Manager of the Sino-Italian Bank, Shanghai, writes to state that the Chen Yi Bank has nothing to do with the Sino-Italian Bank, which does not comtemplate any changes either in Peking or elsewhere.

dents are taking part in this ambitious performance. The ingenuity of the cast and of Miss Clara Park, the director, has been taxed by the many difficulties in staging, but appropriate settings have been worked out even for the scene in which the graves turn into banks of flowers and for the misty blue Land of the Unborn Children. The long cast of characters is headed by Miss Chu Tsung E, who plays Tytiyl, Miss Tseu Mei Yuin, who will appear as Mytyl, Miss Chang Me Li, who is to play the role of Light, and Miss Dan Tsung Wo, cast for the part of the Fairy Berylune.

Yap Question No Nearer Settlement

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 26.—In the House of Commons today, Captain Ormsby-Gore asked whether further communications had passed between the British, American and Japanese Governments on the subject of Yap; whether the dispute was any nearer a settlement, and, if so, what arrangement had been reached in regard to the working of the cable junction at Yap.

The Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, stated that the situation was substantially the same as on April 14, and added that that discussion of the subject in the House would not be conductive to any prospect of a settlement which would be satisfactory to the parties concerned.

Captain Ormsby-Gore then asked whether the statement in the press that the matter had been settled was true.

Mr. Harmsworth replied that he hoped it was in process of settlement, but did not think it should be discussed.

Oxford Does Well With Australians

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 26.—Rain interfered with today's play in the Australians' match against Oxford University. The visitors, whose overnight score in their first innings was 217 for eight wickets, brought their total up to 294, all out.

The 'Varsity, who were 114 in arrears on the first innings, gave a fine display in their second venture, scoring 174 for one wicket before stumps were drawn. The second wicket had then produced 149 runs. The not-out batsmen were Jardine, who made 96 without giving a chance, his hits including 12 fours, and Holdsworth, whose score was 57. The match, being only a two-days' fixture, was drawn.

U.S. Emergency Tariff Will Affect Firms Here

Enactment of the Young Emergency Tariff Act, originally the Fordney bill, which has passed both houses of Congress at Washington will affect certain commercial interests in the Far East and the report from Washington that the President has signed the measure is now being awaited.

It is believed that rates of duty on agricultural products will become effective as soon as the President signs the bill. In the following extracts from the first section of the act, received recently from Washington by the American Consulate, the new schedule of these rates together with existing rates are given.

The Young Emergency Tariff Act, introduced into the 66th Congress as the Fordney Bill, was passed by the House of Representatives of the United States on April 15 and by the Senate on May 11, 1921. The Senate amended the provisions of the bill relating to the dumping of foreign merchandise in the markets of the United States, and regulating the value of foreign currency. The text of these amended provisions has not been received in Shanghai.

The new rates of duty on certain agricultural products, which will be in effect from the passage of the new measure, are included in the following extract from the first section of the Act. For purpose of comparison the existing rates of duty are noted in parentheses.

EMERGENCY TARIFF

On and after the day following the passage of this Act, for the period of six months, there shall be levied, upon the following articles, when imported from any foreign country into the United States or into any of its possessions (except the Philippine Islands, the Virgin Island, and the islands of Guam and Tutuila) the rates of duty prescribed by this section, namely:

1. Wheat, 35 cents per bushel (free*) 2. Wheat flour and semolina, 20 per centum ad valorem (free*).

3. Flaxseed, 30 cents per bushel of fifty-six pounds. (20c).

4. Corn or maize, 15 cents per bushel of fifty-six pounds. (free)

5. Beans (not specially provided for—i.e., not soya, etc.) provided for in paragraph 19 of the Act entitled "An Act to reduce traiff duties and to provide revenue for the Government and for other purposes," approved October 3, 1913, 2 cents per pound. (25 cents per bushel of 60 pounds).

6. Peanuts or ground beans, cents per pound. (In Shells 3-8c per lb. Kernels 3-4 per lb.)

7. Potatoes, 25 cents per bushel of sixty pounds. (free*).

8. Onions, 40 cents per bushel of fifty-seven pounds. (20c).

9. Rice, cleaned, 2 cents per pound, (1c) except rice cleaned for use in the manufacture of canned foods, on which the rate of duty shall be 1 cent per pound; uncleaned rice, or rice free of the outer hull and still having the inner cuticle on, 1¾ cents per pound (5-8 of 1c); rice flour and rice meal, and rice broken which will pass through a number twelve wire sieve of a kind prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury, one-fourth of 1 cent per pound (no change); paddy or rice having the outer hull on three-fourths of 1 cent per pound (3-8 of 1c).

Moscow Starving Says Riga Report

(Reuter's Service)

New York, May 26.—According to a Riga despatch, the population of Moscow are nearing starvation. Owing to the peasants' refusing to sell their corn, the workers are leaving the city to hunt for food in the villages. A pound of bread sold two weeks ago for 1,300 roubles, but the price today is 3,000 roubles, while sugar is selling at 18,000 roubles a pound. High Soviet officials are importing Large quantities of food for their own use twice a week by diplomatic courier, via Esthonia.

Nanking Notes

Bishop W. A. Lewis, of Methodist Episcopal Mission, who has been traveling extensively even to inaccessible places like Szechuen, preached to a large congregation last Sunday, May 22, at the Sage Memorial Chapel.

The Annual Meeting of the Nanking Association will be held on the lawn of Dr. and J. E. Williams, May 27, at 6 p.m. Mrs. Meigs, chairman of the refreshment committee, will arrange for tables and chairs. There will be a brief business meeting and a program.

The Famine Relief Committee at Peking is appealing to Nanking for six men workers.

Mr. H. Ray Sweetman returned here last Saturday from famine area up in the north. In respone to the many inquiries on famine relief in Tingchow (Chihli) Section, he writes for the Weekly Bulletin:

The June harvest is only a 20 percent normal. This means continued suffering. Grain is already selling at more than double the pre-famine price. Many people are desperate. Sales of wives and children are constantly reported in spite of the strong efforts being made to prevent the same. Deaths from starvation are reported daily. As yet no epidemics of disease have been reported, due perhaps in part to the fact that our famine relief tends in the main to keep people at home rather than to mass them together in refuge soup kitchens, etc.

Last Sunday, the fifteenth, the day of the fourth month of the Chinese calendar, being the date for the Country Fair Day in Nanking, thousands of farmers gathered at the Tsiang Wang Miao, one mile outside of the Taiping Gate. Many shows of farmers' implements, woodenware, and chinaware were on exhibit. Chinese plays were performed and attended by many spectators.

Hongkong House Rates To Be Cut

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, May 27.—The Government, replying to a petition, backed by a crowded meeting, for the rescission of the increase in house rates from 13 to 20 percent, announces that it has decided to introduce a resolution in the Legislative Council, rescinding its previous resolution, enforcing the increase.

Chinese Students Eagerly Sought By Three Nations

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 23.—A three cornered race between the leading nations of the world is rapidly developing, the goal being the honor of educating the larger percentage of China's advanced students. Advices from New York, Paris and London all tell of efforts to induce more Chinese students to take post graduate courses abroad and it is likely that in the next year the three nations will offer unusual advantages to students from China. It is now felt that no nation can rightfully expect to advance her friendship, her commercial and other relations with a nation like China unless she can appeal to a large number of graduates who understand her methods and her motives.

America which has always had a large number of these students is now to meet keen competition on the part of England and France. England is planning a general scheme of encouraging the Chinese to study in her great universities and France already has 2,200 there. Of these 2,000 are paying their own way either with funds received from home or by taking employment. The strides France has made since the war has awakened both England and America.

'Invulnerables' No Match For Bandits

(China Press Correspondence)

Hsuchowfu, Ku., May 24.—Interesting reports have come to us of the organisation of certain secret societies to the west of Hsuchowfu. The first called the "Red Spear Society" was organised more than a year ago, and later there came the "White Spear Society." The purpose of these organisations was said to be protection against the robber bands. They have some sort of secret creed, one article of which was that they would be invulnerable.

The robbers, however, showed them otherwise for in their first fight the Red Spears came off with 20 or 30 dead and wounded. These societies were anxious to fight with the soldiers against the robbers but the officials have not permitted this and are discouraging their activities.

Work on the Lung Hai R.R. extension to Haichow is well under way. The road-bed is being rapidly built up and the rails have been laid for a short distance. Large quantities of supplies are on hand.

The Chief Engineer and an assistant from Holland have arrived, and houses are being prepared for several others who are to come in the fall. A hospital is also to be built and will be in charge of a foreign physician.

ASSERTS GERMANY ASKS BANKRUPTCY

Government Deliberately Squandering Money, M. de Sanchez Tells Harvard Men

PEOPLE LIVING IN LUXURY

All Prosperous Except Those Who Live On Fixed Incomes

Boston, April 28.—Discussing the attitudes of Germany and the Allies toward the reparation figures, J. A. M. de Sanchez, head of the Economic Division of the French Commission in the United States, told the Harvard Club tonight that "the German State itself is fast approaching bankruptcy, and it would seem that the German Government is deliberately working with this end in view."

"It has squandered money in an astounding manner," he said, explaining that the Government had subsidized "every conceivable scheme," distributed funds to assist unemployment and cheapen food, run its national railways and all departments at huge deficits, and employed many more persons than were engaged at the same tasks before the war."

In the last year, he declared, the State railways showed earning deficits of 16,000,000,000 marks, "a sum larger than it cost to construct the lines at normal exchange rates." The State railways employ 480,000 persons, compared with slightly above 300,000 in 1914, "and yet Germany complains she has neither wagons nor labor to transport coal from the Ruhr to France," he said.

Postal telegraph service employes number 168,000, compared with 80,000 before the war, and civil service administration workers have increased from 5,500 to 50,000, he added.

"The finances of the German Republic are indeed in a deplorable condition, but the German people themselves are in reality prosperous except those on fixed incomes," M. de Sanchez continued. "The Germans are living in greater luxury now than ever before.

"According to the League of Nations, Germany pays 12 percent of her national income to the State in taxes, the United States 8 percent. Great Britain 27 percent, and France 18 percent.

"It is, of course, not expected that Germany can make the reparations payments entirely in gold; but if she is willing to do so, she can meet all of the sums demanded by paying in labor, in goods, in raw materials and to a certain extent in gold.

"We can find plenty of work for German labor and German machinery in France in new development which will compensate us for our losses, if not actually in the task of reconstruction."

The Germans themselves, M. de Sanchez asserted, had supplied definite grounds for believing they could meet the Allies' demand of $56,500,000,000 to be paid over a forty-two-year period plus a 12½ percent tax on German exports.

He quoted from a paper written in 1914 by Dr. Karl Helfferich, former Minister of Finance and Vice Chancellor of the German Empire, which stated that in twenty years "Germany would have a national wealth of $130,000,000,000 compared with $80,000,000,000 for France and $105,000,000,000 for Great Britain."

M. de Sanchez declared France Russia and the new States of Central Europe lost a greater percentage of men in the war than Germany and reminded his hearers that Germany's pre-war army deprived her of an economic man power of 1,000,000, now reduced to 100,000.

"The more one familiarises himself with all angles of the reparations questions," he declared, "the more inevitable is the conclusion that its solution rests upon Germany's realisation of the fact that she has deceived no one as to her real ability to make reparations and that she will have the sympathy and co-operation of no one until she shows some willingness to repair the damage that she did."

Expedition To Seek Treasure Buried In South Seas Island

Gold And Precious Stones Stolen From Church In Peru

Papeete, Tahiti (Society Islands), April 12.—Interest once more has been aroused in the treasure reputed to be buried in the Island of Pinaki, one of the coral islands to the eastward of Tahiti, and a new association has been formed in Tahiti to seek for the treasure. The story is that during the confusion of a revolution in Peru some sixty or more years ago a church was looted of a rich treasure of gold and precious stones by four men who succeeded in getting it to the coast, where they buried it in a safe place, afterward making their way to Panama.

Having secured a schooner there they returned to Peru, recovered the treasure and sailed westward, intending to make Australia their destination. The fact that they possessed no papers presented an insurmountable obstacle to their gaining entrance to any port without rigid investigation. So they determined to bury the treasure on an uninhabited island in the Paumotus until such time as they could charter in Sidney a schooner for some alleged trading enterprise and sailing with proper papers, return to the island.

When afterward in pursuit of this plan they reached the coast of Australia they sought an unfrequented part of the coast, scuttled their schooner and coming ashore in the guise of shipwrecked sailors endeavored to make their way to Sydney overland. Two only, by name Killrain and Brown, arrived in Sydney, the other two having been killed in a fight with bush natives. Such is the story of the burial of the treasure.

The tale of the attempts for its recovery begins in 1912 or 1913 when one day on the streets of Sydney a man by the name of Thompson was accosted by an elderly beggar seeking alms. On giving the man a small sum Thompson was surprised by the request for his name and address which he carelessly gave and thought no more about it.

Some time later he was summoned to one of the hospitals of the city. There he discovered that the one who had asked for him was the beggar whom he had befriended some time before. The old man told him that he had sent for him to disclose to him the resting place of a great treasure which he and three others had buried on a lonely island many years before; that they had fallen on evil days and were never able to return to the island and that he, Killrain being the only survivor of the company and about to die, did not wish the secret to perish with him.

Thus it was that Thompson came into the knowledge of the story and of sailing directions to locate the island. Being convinced that the story was founded on truth, he came to Tahiti and having satisfied himself that the island of Pinaki is the hiding place of the hidden treasure has spent eight years in search of it—so far without success. Recently, some people in Tahiti have discovered what they believe to be a new clew and are preparing to fit out an expedition to go to the island.

One of the most popular numbers was a Dutch dance in costume and another was Highland fling, with the Chinese dancers garbed in plaid. The programs were inscribed on magnolia leaves. A number of parents and friends attended the fete.

Says U.S. Should Make Foreign Loans

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 23.—America, instead of looking with suspicion on applications for loans to foreign countries should be pleased and make every effort to grant the requests in the opinion of W. H. Wooden of the American Car and Foundry Company just before he sailed for Europe on a business trip. Mr. Wooden said the three fields in which America should be eager to lend money and build up business are China, Mexico and South America. As to the expansion of business in locomotives and cars generally, Mr. Wooden said China was an especially good field. He advocated an expanded American business in China that would make the building of more railroads necessary and profitable to everyone concerned. Mr. Wooden said that there are now billions of dollars in America that should be lent to other countries.

BANK NOT RECOGNISED

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 26.—The Government has not yet authorised the registration of the Mongolian-Tibetan Bank owing to the fact that the bank has no capital in specie but only in National Treasury bonds, held by Mongolian Princes. Mr. Chen Ting-chieh, the Director of the Bank, who is endeavoring to persuade the Government to allow the registration of the bank, advances the argument that, if the Government is not prepared to recognise Treasury bills as having the same value as specie, it had better cash the bonds for the Mongolian Princes.

FILIPINOS PLAY TODAY; GAME AT 2

Olympic Nine Showing In First Of Doubleheader; Huron In Second

STARTING EARLY

"Play Ball" Call Is Set For 2 p.m. Sharp; Crowd Expected

Week End Schedule Of Baseball Games

Today——
Doubleheader:
First game, 2 p.m., Shanghai vs. Filipino Olympic team.
Second game, 4 p.m., Shanghai vs. U.S.S. Huron, second of series.

SUNDAY
Shanghai vs. U. S. S. Elcano, 3 p.m.

WITH a doubleheader set for today, and a game tomorrow the players of the Shanghai Amateur Baseball Club have a week-end of work cut out for them.

The first game today, with the Filipino Olympic team should show Shanghai fans a quality of baseball such as they have never seen. The Filipinos comprising the visiting team are the best of the Manila Bay league. They are selected from a hard winter and spring season of play. They are fast and strong in every department. They are said to be a bunch of sluggers.

Local fans who have seen the Manila boys at their workouts at Hongkew park and the Race Course predict that the Shanghai Civilian team will have to live up to its reputation as a hard-hitting aggregation and the pitching will have to be airtight for a chance to beat them.

Capt. Wilhoit, however, must realise that he is going up against a hard day today, for he has every one of his untried candidates and nearly all of the first string men out at a hard work out yesterday evening. The players divided up into two teams and serious inside baseball was gone through. Divine pitched for the second team, while Moody and Ault twirled for the first.

Dennison, the pitcher of whom much was hoped for this spring was at the park, but not in uniform yesterday. He had one foot in a sling as a result of a blister acquired during practice a few days ago from an ill-fitting shoe. He may, however be able to work before the week-end schedule is played out.

The game with the Huron men today will be the second of the series which it was expected would run into five games. The first game of the series went to the sailors, and Shanghai, after their play with the Filipinos, will have to extend themselves against the Huron nine to hold their chances even on the series. With the Huron sailing June 10, and occupied next week in Oper Games at the Far Eastern Championships, there is not much chance of further play in this series until a week from tomorrow at the earliest. It might even develop that the five-game series will be cut to three.

Tomorrow's game with the Elcano team should be an interesting affair. The Elcano men have a good little team, and can make it interesting for the locals. They will furnish the Sunday crowd with a good afternoon's entertainment.

TWO BIG GAMES ON LAWN BOWLS WEEK END CARD

Recs To Meet Yangtszepoo Club At Wayside Park Today

JUNIORS ON SUNDAY

J. Burnside Will Help Them In Contest Against S.L.B.C.

(BY THE SHOT)

Two official games are on the card for this week end, both of which should be keenly contested.

Today, the Recs journey to the Wayside Park and will meet the Yangtszepoo Club. After their win last week they should have heaps of confidence, especially as their team is much stronger by the inclusion of Messrs. Eek, Jones, Landers and David.

I am very pleased to see Tom Poignand in the position of skip, and I am assured that he is able to do all that is required.

A glance at the notice board on the Recs' green, makes one realise that a live committee have got hold of the Bowling section.

A very good, and at the same time, profitable idea is the 20 cts. fine for every bowl sent down wrongly biassed. Strange to say, many old and experienced bowlers are managing to get stung.

Looking over the Yangtszepoo team, one cannot help missing such names as "Geordie" Fraser Ferrier, Robinson, Roebuck and others.

It is very creditable on the part of the committee that they seem to have overcome all difficulties for the team doing duty today reads sufficiently robust to make the Recs go all the way to annex a win.

It is good to see Malcolm with us again—a dour player this and of quite championship class. Another player who should strengthen their ranks is H. S. Smyth. I rather think the Recs will just win today's game.

On Sunday the Juniors visit the S. L. B. C. and the inclusion of J. Burnside will strengthen their team considerably. Though defeated last week, they were by no means disgraced and I am convinced that they will put up a good fight against the cracks.

The green at Hongkew Park is in splendid condition and at their opening day last Sunday, it was a treat to see it—every ring full and a good crowd lining the banks. At any rate "Captain" Braid seemed quite bucked over it.

The big club seem to be as strong as ever and the crowded state of their greens each night testify to the popularity of the game. I expected to see that popular player, C. M. Bain on the team this week, but both he and Albert Taylor are abstentees, so buck up Juniors and do your best to put them to sleep. Teams for today: Start 3:30 sharp.

POLO CLUB OLD TIMERS TO HELP YOUNG PLAYERS

The Shanghai Polo Club announces that novices chukkers will be played on Mondays and Wednesdays (extra days). On these days old members will coach beginners desirous of learning the intricacies of the game.

Members desirous of ascertaining when the Polo Ground is open for play may ring up the Race Club during business hours.

Owing to the increased number of players, members are requested to state number of ponies as well as chukkers they are playing when signing the chukker sheet. Hongkong Men To Play Cricket This Afternoon

Shanghai cricket fans, so well served in the Interport play with the Hongkong team which concluded Thursday, are to have another match staged for them today at the Shanghai Cricket club grounds.

The match may be classed as a near-interport match. Nine of the regular Hongkong interport men will play and two others will be substituted by what might be called interport reserves. The Shanghai club will play an eleven that looks very much like the "Possibles" lineup of pre-Interport days.

The Hongkong regular Interporters who are to be out of today's game are Major H. G. Bagnall and Capt. P. Havelock Davies. They will be substituted by Mr. E. W. Hamilton, who accompanied the team from the south as reserve and who officiated as umpire during the interport play, and Mr. R. L. D. Wodehouse, formerly a resident of Hongkong and one of the premier players of that city, now resident in Shanghai.

The game will commence at 1:30 p.m. Tiffin will be served at the Clubhouse Pavilion at 12:30 o'clock.

The two elevens follow:

Hongkong	Shanghai
G. R. Sayer	C. Brook
Capt. Olliver	W. C. G. Clifford
F. C. De Rome	E. W. Day
E. W. Hamilton	A. W. Hayward (Capt.)

SHANGHAI STARS BEAT FILIPINOS AT BASKETBALL

Local Mixed Team, Heavier And Bigger; Score Is 49 To 44

Basketball enthusiasts had an opportunity yesterday to give the Philippines basketball team the once over in a practice game played at the Chinese "Y" against an all-star team composed of Americans and Chinese. The latter defeated the Far Eastern championship contenders by a score of 49 to 44.

The local team took the lead early in the first half, which the Filipinos cut down to a margin of only two points when the half ended, the score standing 19 to 17. The game was marred by considerable fumbling by both teams. The Filipinos were out-weighed and out-reached by the Americans who played in the game. The Filipinos displayed flashes of rapid team work whenever they handled the ball cleanly.

The second half was featured by the accurate shooting of Glauque who shot six field goals in about as many minutes at the opening of the second canto. The lead which the big center piled up for the local team was too much for the Filipinos to overcome although they tried valiantly toward the end of the half. Bautista was the individual star of the game. He exhibited some very accurate shooting. The final score stood 49 to 44 in favor of the all star five.

JAPANESE AND CHINESE LOSE AT FRENCH CLUB

Local Tennis Players Too Strong For Men To Be In Olympic Games

MANSEL SMITH STAR

Fargas And Suarez Play Barrett And Toussaint This Afternoon

FRENCH Club tennis players defeated both Japanese and Chinese yesterday in the two doubles matches played at the courts of the Cercle Sportif before a good crowd. Mansel Smith and Knowles defeated Asano and Kitagawa while Toussaint and Gulick won the match against Dr. Tiao and Pan. The Japanese were defeated 6-3, 6-4 and 6-2. Toussaint and Gulick won 2-6, 6-3 and 10-8, the last set proving to be an excellent exhibition.

Because of the late arrival of the Empress from Hongkong, the South China team will not play today but Fargas and Suarez, the Philippine doubles pair, are to meet Captain Barrett and Toussaint this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. Mr. Knowles is to play Mikami at three o'clock while Mansel Smith is to meet Okumura after the completion of the first match.

Sunday will be given over to exhibition games, between the best singles selected from the Philippines, Japan and China Olympic teams, and members of the Cercle Sportif.

Mr. Knowles will play Mr. Fargas, of the Filipino team at 2:30 p.m.; Mr. Toussaint will meet Mr. Okumura, of the Japanese delegation at 3:30 p.m., and Mr. Mansel Smith will play Mr. Ng Sze-kwang of the South China team at 4:30.

All of these games will be played at the French Club.

The matches yesterday brought out the fact that the Japanese pair Asano and Kitagawa look better than Pan and Dr. Tiao and the games also proved that in Mansel Smith, Shanghai has a player who will show well in the interport matches against Hongkong. These will follow the Olympic Games.

Yesterday Mansel Smith was cool and heady, did not exert himself and but seldom failed to rise to the occasion, whether serving, volleying or placing. He

RECEPTION TODAY

Chinese Organisations Entertaining This Afternoon

OFFICIALS and contestants of the Far Eastern Championship games will be guests at a reception given by the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, the Bankers' Association, and the Cotton Mills Association of Shanghai, this afternoon at 4 o'clock, at the Hsueh-fu Garden, 803 Avenue Foch. The reception will be the principal and the last formal function of welcome given to the contestants before the beginning of the big games Monday.

The entrants for each of the three countries represented in the Far Eastern games—China, Japan and the Philippines, are showing Shanghai, and, incidentally each other just what they have in these last few days of training. Last night the Filipino basketball team met a picked team of Shanghai American and Chinese stars, and lost. The Japanese tennis doubles played a series yesterday afternoon with the best of the Cercle Sportif and lost. The North China doubles also played in doubles and lost.

Today the Filipino baseball nine will meet the Shanghai Baseball Club at the Race course at 2 p.m., for the only bit of team practice since their arrival.

TRACK AND FIELD

The Japanese runners are attracting considerable attention in their training at Hongkew park. Okazaki, the Imperial University mile and half mile star, who is entered in the 880-yard run and the mile is showing onlookers some endurance and speed. Okazaki is the holder of the Japanese mile and half mile records.

ZIONISTS AT ODDS ON AMERICA FUND

Demand For Control Of Keren Hayesod By Followers Is Refused By Weizmann

TERMINATES CONFERENCE

Rejects Plea For Donation Fund Only Rift May Cut Donations

New York, April 22.—A break between Dr. Chaim Weizmann, President of the World Zionist Organisation, and his colleagues from Europe, and the Zionist Organisation of America, headed by Judge Julian W. Mack, over the question of control of money to be raised in the United States, was announced last night by Judge Mack. The break, which is certain to have a serious effect on the Zionist movement unless it is healed, has been feared by Zionists ever since the delegation arrived in America because of the divergence of the views of the two factions as to immediate aims and financial methods.

The specific cause of the break was the control of the Keren Hayesod, or Donation Fund, which American Zionists wished placed on a strictly business basis, with a budget to show monthly receipts and disbursements and controlled by a commission on which Americans should have controlling representation. This Dr. Weizmann would not consent to. Dr. Weizmann himself was not so much at variance with American Zionists, it was said, as those from the East on his staff who placed more emphasis on rebuilding the spiritual and educational centers of Palestine than on insuring what many American Zionists felt should be a solid economic basis.

CANNOT BUILD ON DREAMS

"A land cannot be built on dreams alone," was the way a leading American Zionist phrased the situation last night. In his statement, Judge Mack says:

"Dr. Weizmann abruptly terminated the negotiations which I have had with him and his associates for the last two weeks, in the hope of reaching common ground on the basis of the unanimous resolution of the Buffalo convention for the establishment in the United States of the Keren Hayesod as a donation fund only, to be used exclusively in Palestine, and under such adequate safeguards as would secure its proper expenditure.

"When Dr. Weizmann finally and expressly assented that the Keren Hayesod should in the United States be exclusively a donation fund, I felt assured that the efforts for peace and united action had been successful.

"The suggestions theretofore made in the course of our conferences were drafted during the night by representatives appointed by Dr. Weizmann and myself. The draft was submitted to each of us. It embodied the points stated below.

"While the draft was under consideration Dr. Weizmann advised me that he absolutely rejected it, and without further statement or conference issued a proclamation establishing, independent of the Zionist Organisation of America, the Keren Hayesod Bureau in the United States.

"The officers of the Zionist Organisation of America are not parties to this proclamation. They had not been asked to sign it and they could not have become parties thereto, because it completely fails either to limit the fund as agreed to a donation fund. or to embody therein any safeguards with respect to expenditures; conditions indispensably precedent to our co-operation in the solicitation of these funds.

"A full statement of the negotiations will be promptly made and will be accompanied by the plans of the Zionist Organisation of America for initiating the Palestine Donation Fund, pursuant to the resolutions of the Buffalo convention and our Executive Committee. In the campaign for this fund we shall count upon the immediate and continuous co-operation of all loyal Zionists and of all American Jews."

PROVISIONS FOR ARMENIANS

The provisions of the draft referred to by Judge Mack, upon which a joint committee was working at the time Dr. Wiezmann refused to negotiate further, are as follows:

"(a) The fund shall be a donation fund only.

"(b) A board of directors or trustees will be set up upon which the Mizrachi, Poale Zion and non Zionists will be given appropriate representation.

"(c) Save as specified under (d), (e) and (f) the moneys will be held on deposit in the banks in the United States.

"(d) The budget of the American Zionist medical unit shall be a first charge upon the fund, the appropriations therefore to be paid to and expended by the Executive Committee of the unit.

"(e) A prorata monthly contribution to the fixed Palestine budget shall be a next charge upon the Fund. Statements will be published monthly by the Executive of the World Zionist Organisation setting forth in detail all receipts for and expenditures under such budget. Such contributions shall be paid to the Executive of the World Zionist Organisation and expended by it in accordance with the provisions of such budget, it being understood that new commitments involving expenditures beyond the date of the new Congress will not be entered into.

(f) Contributions from the Fund for purposes not covered by the fixed Palestine budget shall be made in such amounts as shall from time to time be agreed upon between the President of the World Zionist Organisation and the President of the Zionist Organisation of America. The disposition of the unexpended balance of the fund shall be determined by the next Zionist Congress."

WEIZMANN'S DEFENCE

Dr. Weizmann and his colleagues went to Washington last night, but before leaving issued a statement saying that Dr. Weizmann's principal purpose in coming to the United States was to establish a Keren Hayesod Bureau and that in issuing an appeal to the Jews of America he was fulfilling his duty as President of the world movement, and carrying out the resolutions of the Zionist Conference held in London in July, 1920.

It was stated that Dr. Weizmann had agreed to consider the advisability of authorising the Keren Hayesod as a donation fund only if "other fundamental obstacles in the way of immediate action, involved in the contentions of Judge Mack, were removed. "Contributions in all countries are conducted by the world organisation, it was said, and are not under the jurisdiction or control of any single federation.

Man Is Polygenetic Not Monogenetic In Origin, Says Savant

Dr. Hill-Tout Reports He Found Proofs Of Theory In Survey Of Skulls

Los Angeles, April 22.—Dr. Charles Hill-Tout, Ph. D., of the executive committee of the American Institute of Research, member of the Archaeological Institute of America, fellow of the Royal Society of Canada and of the Royal Anthropological Institute of Great Britain, is preparing a report to be submitted to the Royal Society of Canada at its May meeting, containing what he asserts is evidence that man is polygenetic instead of monogenetic in origin, as evolutionists have long thought.

Dr. Hill-Tout says he discovered his proofs while working upon a clew he found in a survey of the skulls of apes and anthropoids. He contends that his report will show that nature, when man was in the making, turned out more than one specimen, as science always claimed, in the case of the anthropoids. Hitherto evidence has been lacking that man was not descended from one line.

Dr. Hill-Tout believes the discovery eliminates completely two links in the chain of the pedigree of man, who, developing along opposite lines, has perpetuated his ancestral characters and attained a brain expansion which has given him the sovereignty over all other forms of life.

THEORY ON 'DAWN MEN'

"This theoretical conception of hemosimius precursion, the ancestor common to man and the apes, is shown to be founded in fact by the discovery of the most interesting of all our fossil human remains, eoanthropus, or the 'dawn man.'" Dr. Hill-Tout says:

"This ancient man roamed over the southern downs of England when the British Isles were a part of the mainland of Europe, at the close of the Pliocene period. It probably antedates by some thousands of years pithecanthropus evectus. Unlike the latter, eoanthropus is relatively higher developed in its cranial characters.

"Its cranial capacity is greater than that of many of the men of the backward races of today. Most of its cranial characters are remarkably modern in type, having much the same contours as that of the young anthropoids. That it is a primitive type we learn, for while it possesses a well developed head it also has the chinless jaw and the canine teeth of the anthropoids.

"Indeed, it differs from the young anthropoids only in its larger cranial capacity. It is clear from the evidence, both of the human-like characters of the 'dawn man' and the young anthropoids, that the low-browed pithecoid was not a primitive man. In other words, he followed anthropoid development rather than the human, and so lost his chance with the human race.

"The discovery of men with modern cranial characters, living thousands of years earlier than Neanderthal man, and the discovery of the 'dawn' man, eoanthropus, in England, in 1912, forces us to give up the monogenetic origin of man and accept the polygenetic origin.

"If we now want to discover man's oldest ancestor we must go to eoanthropus and not to pithecanthropus, for the former has all the characters which promen should possess, characters which were common to the first man and to the first anthropoid apes as exemplified in the cranial characters of the young of both species today.

"For, according to that great bigenetic principle, more commonly known as Baer's law, we see why the skulls of the young of the Neanderthal race and the young of the anthropoids or human-like apes are so different from those of their parents. The principle expressed by this law signifies that the ontogeny of the individual recapitulates the philogeny of the race—and this is where the law throws light upon the problems under consideration—that the young of any species represent more truly and closely than do the adult members of the species the actual ancestral type from which they spring."

A large collection of photographs will be used by Dr. Hill-Tout in illustrating his theories.

Slides 100 Feet By Rope With Arms Paralysed

Worker Disabled On Top Of Stack Comes Down By Aid Of Teeth

Middletown, N. Y., April 16.—Theodore Hobush was seized with cramps which paralysed his arms temporarily while at work today on the top of the 130-foot chimney stack of the Public Service Corporation here. His only means of descent was a rope, and he decided to make use of it at once, lest the cramps extend to his legs.

Taking a turn of the rope around one leg to act as a brake, he gripped it above with his teeth and swung out. By doubling up his body like an inchworm he got a lower grip with his teeth and then slipped his leg grip until his body once more was extended.

This painful progress had taken him to within thirty feet of the ground when the cramps attacked his legs. For a moment he dangle from his jaw hold. Then he dropped. Although severely bruised, he suffered no broken bones, and as soon as he had rubbed the kinks out of his muscles went back to his job.

He is employed by the Custodis Chimney Company, of New York, and is repairing damage caused by lightning last year.

Admiral Line To Get More New Ships Soon

Wenatchee To Undergo Repairs In Seattle—Changes Sailing From U. S.

The United States Shipping Board is planning to make extensive repairs and alterations to the passenger liner Wenatchee when the big ship arrives at Seattle after her first trip to the Orient, according to a cable message received at the Yokohama Office of the Admiral Line. The alterations are expected to take about 30 days, according to the cable, and for that reason the next sailing date from Seattle for the Wanatchee has been postponed to July 30.

The same dispatch brings the information that the steamer Silver State named for the state of Nevada has successfully completed her trial trip off the Atlantic coast, making a trial speed of 18½ knots per hour. "The engines and pumps are perfect" and "the furnishings are very superior to the Wenatchee," the cable states. The Silver State the third passenger liner to be allotted to the Admiral Line for the Seattle-Orient run, was to be delivered to that company May 15 and is scheduled to depart from New York for Seattle on June 4 and from Seattle for Yokohama June 9.

Teams Set For Games Monday

the new mark for the half mile and who also beat the old record, is entered with Okazaki in the 880-yard run and the mile. Hatakeyama who won in the 5-mile trials in Japan and Ikuta and Imagawa, second and third, all broke the old record for the distance. They are entered in the five mile event here, and are being watched closely in their training.

The Filipino track and field men also went through their training runs yesterday at Hongkew. They worked in the morning. All men went their full distances, and last evening were reported to be all in fine condition.

Nicolas, of the Filipino javelin throwers, who holds the distance record of the islands at 170 feet, and two of the Japanese, Masuda and Asaoka have been throwing the javelin over 160 feet in practice at Hongkew.

In the discus throwers Japan's best bet is Kozawa who has tossed it about 109 feet, and the Filipinos are coming right close to that mark in their practice.

High jumpers and pole vaulters are working every day. Japan is not so strong here. This event will undoubtedly be decided between the Chinese and the Filipinos who are showing good style in training.

BASKETBALL MEN

Basketball practice was gone through at the Chinese "Y" gym. in a fast game between some of the Filipino players and a picked team of local American and Chinese stars. The Homo boys won by a big score, by their greater weight and reach, but the Olympic men showed class in their play that will get them some goals in the Far Eastern play next week.

The Japanese basketballers are working in the open at Hongkew, with their second team. Eight men are classed as first string men. They are in good shape, and are hopeful of getting a good place in the games.

SWIMMING ENTRANTS

Swimming entrants for the big games were in the waters of the Chinese "Y" and the Public Swimming Bath tanks but nothing in the way of speed or endurance was attempted, the men confining themselves generally to maintaining their limber condition.

TENNIS

The play at the French Club with the tennis stars of the Cercle Sportif is giving the Far Eastern entrants an excellent opportunity for rounding into shape, and incidentally is giving the Shanghai public a good opportunity at observing the style and merits of the various players. Two sets of doubles were played yesterday, one against Japanese and another against Chinese. This play continues today and again tomorrow. The Filipinos, the South Chinese doubles and singles, and the Japanese singles all will work through the schedule. The Filipinos played two sets of doubles and one singles at Hongkew Park yesterday.

BASEBALL

The Japanese baseball teams yesterday went through a two and half hour workout yesterday at Hongkew. The team is fast and sure, and are hitters. They are expected to finish high in the series. Thirteen men comprise the group, all of whom are college graduates.

Eighteen Filipinos of the baseball group went through a stiff workout at the Race Course grounds yesterday afternoon from 2:30 until 4:30, when they gave over to the Huron men. The Filipinos confined themselves to batting and fielding practice, as a general limbering up for their game with the Shanghai civilian team today, which is counted upon as the final touch of team practice.

The Chinese baseball team is working at St. John's University, but handicapped by lack of pitching material the nine will not be a factor in the series.

In track and field China promises several surprises, there will be several good swimmers in the China entry list while the football championship is scheduled to come Chinawards. In basketball the Northern Chinese will defeat Japan and should stage a great battle against the Filipinos.

played intelligent and powerful tennis.

Of the Japanese Asano showed better and the scores of the matches are no criterion of the play. Both Mansel Smith and Knowles were good and had the edge all the way. But the Japanese played splendid tennis at times, failing only in critical spots. The French Club men were much steadier, Japanese attempting to kill practically every shot, the result being many wild balls. The Japanese also lost too many services.

In the game against the Chinese Toussaint displayed the same canny playing which has kept him to the fore in the Shanghai tennis world so long. Gulick also played well, driving nicely. Toussaint placed his shots better.

The Chinese won the first set, impressively, the score being 6-2. Gulick and Toussaint were on the long end of the 6-3 score in the second set and the last set was a see-saw affair which quit at 10-8. Dr. Tiao who played his first tennis in England, will be a valuable man for China in the Olympic because of his experience and his heady playing.

A meeting of the Lawn Tennis Association will be held shortly to decide on the Shanghai team for the interport tourney with the Hongkong men who arrive on the Empress today.

Tebong Estates Meeting

A meeting of the debenture holders in The Tebong Rubber and Tapioca Estate, Limited, was held yesterday at 11.45 a.m. at the offices of the secretaries No. 24A Kiangse Road.

Mr. A. J. Welch presided, supported by Messrs. R. G. Macdonald and H. M. Little, trustees for the debenture holders and Mr. C. J. L. Stewart, secretary. The attendance represented Taels 80,600 worth of debentures.

The notice convening the meeting having been read, the Chairman addressed the meeting as follows:

Gentlemen,

This meeting has been called as a necessary preliminary to proposing a scheme of reconstruction to the shareholders of the Company, since before the Directors can proceed with any scheme it is essential that they should first call you together and explain their plans to you and give you an opportunity of criticising their suggestions. If your approval to the broad outline of the scheme is obtained at this meeting the Directors can immediately go on with the necessary formalities to reconstruction and when everything is cut and dried you will again be called together to consider the final scheme before it is formally submitted to the Shareholders.

On the other hand if you do do not approve and we cannot arrive at some mutually satisfactory basis at this meeting then any scheme of reconstruction is blocked and there will be no alternative but to wind up the Company.

EXPLAINS FINANCES

In order that you may understand the position properly and the necessity for the proposal that the Directors are making will endeavor to put the present condition of the finances of the Company before you as briefly and as clearly as I can.

As you will have gathered from the circular letter that was posted to you, the Company has now come to the end of its financial resources and if it is to carry on further working capital must be obtained.

It is a matter of common knowledge that the very acute depression that has existed in the rubber industry for the past 7 or 8 months has hit all companies very hard and what is perhaps worse has made bankers very chary of advancing any money to them. This Company is specially handicapped in raising money as, although it owns a very fine and valuable estate with 3,575 acres planted with rubber —of which 2,161 acres are already in bearing—all the title deeds are deposited with your trustees as security against the debenture issue and consequently the directors have nothing they can pledge in exchange for an advance.

The Directors have for some time past been considering various methods of raising money, such as an issue of second Mortgage debentures or a call on Shareholders to lend the Company money pro rata to their shareholding but after very careful thought they have come to the conclusion that, as it is quite impossible to set any period to when the existing depression will terminate and the price of Rubber return to a figure that will cover the cost of production the soundest course for them to pursue is to propose a reconstruction of the Company and thus to start afresh with a clean slate.

TELLS OF DEFICIT

The Company is not yet very deeply indebted; according to the latest advices our position is approximately as follows:

In Shanghai we owe nearly Taels 17,000, in the Straits our liquid assets, including an unsold stock of 77,800 lbs. of rubber are sufficient to cover our immediate liabilities and to leave a surplus of $2,000 or $3,000, while in London we owe the Secretaries £12,700 against which they hold an unsold Stock of rubber amounting to 221,100 lbs.

This Stock is being sold as opportunity offers without forcing Stocks on to an already overloaded market but I am afraid that when it has all been realised it will not produce sufficient to repay the sum advanced. It is extremely difficult to estimate what the deficit is likely to be, but if the stock realises 8 pence per pound the shortage will amount to £5,300 while every penny per pound better than 8 pence that it averages will reduce the deficit by £921.

I should perhaps at this juncture explain to you how this large sum became owing to the secretaries in London.

During 1920 practically the whole of the Company's output of rubber was shipped to London and drafts were drawn against each shipment the proceeds of which went to meet the current expenses of the estate. Towards the end of 1920, owing to the congestion at the docks in London and the increasing difficulty of selling rubber, the drafts began to fall due before the rubber could be taken delivery of and sold.

When the depression in the rubber market first made itself manifest it was not expected to be of long duration, the London office of the secretaries therefore retired the drafts as they fell due out of their own funds. The secretaries are not pressing for repayment of their advances and the thanks of the shareholders are due to them for having come to the assistance of the Company in so substantial a manner.

RECONSTRUCTION SCHEME

Now as regards the reconstruction scheme. The Directors propose that you shall be asked, in the Resolution that I am about to propose, to accept debentures in the proposed new Company in exchange for the debentures that you at present hold.

The debentures in the new Company will be identical in every way to those in the present Company. That is to say, the terms and conditions, rate of interest and security will be precisely the same, so that you are not being asked to give up any of your rights, or security but simply to exchange debenture stock in one Company for exactly similar debenture stock in another Company.

As I have already told you the estate consists of 3,575 acres fully planted with rubber, in addition to which there is a reserve of 264 acres of land suitable in every way for planting Hevea.

The security offered to you is therefore excellent as, omitting the reserve land, the debenture issue only amounts to Taels 70 per planted acre or say at the present exchange about £11. I have no hesitation whatever in saying that even under the present abnormal conditions the Estate is worth many times this sum.

If you pass this resolution, the Directors intend to propose to the shareholders that the present Company shall be liquidated and that a new company with an authorised Capital of Taels 150,000 in shares of one tael each shall be formed.

Eight of these one tael shares will be given to the shareholders for every £1 share at present held by them, in addition to which they will be asked to take up and pay for one share of one tael for every £1 share held.

If all these extra shares are taken up the issued capital of the new company will be Taels 59,403.00 of which Taels 73,467.00 will be in cash. This will leave unissued 90,597 shares of one tael each which will be available for issue at a later date if the necessity arises.

HOPES FOR RISE

The difference between the receipts and expenditure in the Straits at the present time is a monthly deficit of between $2,000 and $3,000, in addition to which the debenture interest, and Directors, auditors, trustees and Secretaries fees amount to say $3,550 per month or if rubber does not further depreciate in price a total deficit for 12 months, taking the higher figure of a loss of $3,000 per month in the Straits, of S.$79,000.00, so that as Tls. 73,267 represent at present exchange S.$100,000.00, there should be sufficient to pay off our indebtedness, to pay the debenture interest as it falls due and to provide for running the Estate for several months to come.

Before this money is exhausted I sincerely hope that the price of rubber will have improved materially, so that a further issue of shares will be unnecessary. You may more readily understand the position if I tell you that the foregoing figures mean that with rubber at 45 cents or 1/- per pound the Estate can just about meet all Expenditure both in the Straits and Shanghai.

That is all I have to say, Gentlemen, and I will now read to you the Resolution which is proposed by myself and seconded by Mr. R. Macgregor.

That this meeting of holders of debentures of The Tebong Rubber and Tapioca Estate, Limited, constituted by deed of mortgage and trust dated the 18th day of March, 1913, and made between the Company of the one part and The Cathay Trust, Limited, as trustees of the other part and a deed of appointment of new trustees supplemental thereto dated the 10th day of June, 1918, and made between the Company of the first part the said Cathay Trust, Limited, and the liquidators thereof of the second part and Harry Martin Little and Roderick George Macdonald the new trustees of the third part (which meeting has been duly convened pursuant to the provisions of the third schedule of the said deed of mortgage and trust) hereby assents to the scheme of reconstruction of the Company as set forth in the circular letter addressed by the Company to the debenture holders and dated the 27th day of May, 1921, and to the substitution of debentures of a new company to be registered pursuant to such scheme for the present debentures of the company and to that end hereby empowers the said new trustees to concur in the cancellation of the said deeds dated respectively the 18th day of March, 1913, and the 10th day of June, 1918, and the said debentures of the company and to concur with the said new company in executing a deed of mortgage and trust in terms similar to the said deed dated the 18th day of March, 1913.

The proposal is now open for discussion and I shall be very pleased to hear anything that you may wish to say on the subject. I would ask you to bear in mind that you, as debenture holders, hold the fate of this company in your hands and if you do not approve of the suggestion put before you, please say so now, so that we can thrash the matter out at this meeting and arrive at some mutually satisfactory basis.

Mr. E. Samson:—Mr. Chairman, I arise to propose an amendment to the resolution you have just read.

The debenture holders must consider their position as to the market value which is now probably at least 30% below par. They could not at present sell for more than Tls. 60 to Tls. 70 per Tls. 100 debenture. Debenture holders are justified in taking any reasonable steps to improve the market value of their security and this can only be done by raising the rate of interest. Interest rates are now considerably raised —Municipal debentures have lately been issued at 8%—and new debentures in a rubber company however strong could not be issued under 12% at least.

Without wishing to place any undue extra burden on the company which is going through hard times I consider in any rearrangement of debenture security the interest rate should be raised to 10%.

This should be no special hardship on the ordinary shareholders as under the terms of the debenture issue the company has the option of repaying the debentures at any time at par or to buy them back at or below par in the market. This option came into force in 1915. The company therefore at any time has its remedy, i.e. to pay off or buy in on the market.

I therefore propose an Amendment to the resolution as follows:

That the extraordinary resolution as drafted and submitted to the meeting be passed subject to the following alterations, viz:

After the words "substitution of debentures" the following words be inserted "bearing interest at the rate of 10% per annum" and that after the words "in terms similar" the following words be inserted "except as regards to rate of interest."

Mr. Purslow said that considering the present state of the market it behoved debenture holders to carefully consider the resolution proposed by the Directors: he however would be pleased to second the amended resolution as proposed by Mr. Samson.

The Chairman: Mr. Samson, I see your point of view quite clearly but I am afraid that paying the increased rate of interest, which would cost Taels 5,000 per annum, would only mean placing further difficulties in the way of financing the Company.

I shall however be very pleased to put your amendment to the meeting.

The amendment was then voted upon and declared lost.

Mr. Barham. Mr. Chairman, I should like to propose another amendment. The effect of paying 10 percent interest will be apparently only to further embarrass the Company and in my opinion the best thing to do is to try and sell the estate while it is still possible to do so. If the present depression lasts for another year there will be very many estates for sale, and if this Company wanted to sell then they might find it impossible to obtain an offer.

If the reconstruction of the Company meant that the Company would be able to carry on for another year, he suggested that perhaps the Directors would consider earmarking sufficient funds to meet the debenture interest as it fell due.

He would also like to know what steps were being taken to economise and he would even suggest that it might be advisable to abandon the immature area.

He suggested that this meeting be adjourned so that the debenture holders could be supplied with details of the expenditure and of the economies that were being effected.

The Chairman. Mr. Barham, I can assure you that everything possible is being done to reduce the expenditure in every possible way. Already the foreign staff has been largely reduced, no fewer than five members have left the service of the Company. Nothing but the work that is absolutely necessary for the efficient upkeep of the Estate is being done.

As regards the immature area, this amounts to 1414 acres which has been planted up on an average of somewhat over 200 acres per year since 1915, it consists of very fine young Rubber and I think it would be a great pity to abandon it. The estimated cost of upkeep for the current year is about $18,000 but of course no money will be spent that is not absolutely necessary.

With regard to the suggested adjournment of the meeting, this has not been seconded, but I do not see how you will gain anything by our doing so. An adjourment would mean that we would not be able to obtain the shareholders confirmation of the Directors proposals for at least six or seven weeks and the matter of finance is of extreme urgency.

The secretaries are willing to continue to advance any small sums that may be necessary but they have other calls upon them and cannot continue to do so indefinitely. The quicker we can get on with this scheme the better it will be.

Mr. Barham. In view of the explanations given I prefer the original resolution, as undoubtedly the extra 2 percent will further embarras the situation, I therefore support the Directors' resolution.

The Chairman. Mr. Barham, you raised one point that I did not reply to and that is the question of earmarking a certain sum to meet the debenture interest as it falls due.

I do not think that the Directors could quite do this, but of course if they find that the present depression continues and there is any danger of their not having sufficient funds to meet the payments as they fall due they will have to consider a further issue of shares.

Mr. Purslow. I see that the extra 2 percent on debentures would not assist the Company, but I should like to hear of the Directors of rubber companies foregoing some of their fees and thus helping to bring down expenses.

Mr. R. Macgregor. I think that when you receive your annual report you will see that the Directors of this Company have not taken any fees for the past year.

Mr. Purslow. I am very glad to hear it and I think the announcement just made reflects great credit on the Tebong directors. I hope other companies directors will follow suit.

The original resolution was then put to the meeting and carried.

The chairman thanked the debenture holders for their attendance and the meeting terminated.

JAPAN'S PRINCE

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 26.—Yesterday afternoon the Crown Prince of Japan paid a visit to the Crossley Motor Works, where Sir Kenneth Crossley mentioned that the firm had granted the Japanese Government the right to build Avro aeroplanes in Japan, and had had orders from the Japanese Government for over a hundred thousand pounds' worth of aeroplanes.

The Crown Prince and his suite spent this morning in visiting the Manchester Ship Canal. All the vessels were beflagged. After lunching as the guest of the Canal Company, His Imperial Highness returned to London, leaving a gift of £200 for the poor of Manchester.

This evening, the Crown Prince was the guest of the Japan Society at a dinner given in his honor at the Hotel Cecil. The Duke of York was also present.

In reply to a very cordial toast, the Crown Prince congratulated the Society on the assiduity with which it was working to bring the two peoples together in amity and understanding. He raised his glass to the prosperity of Great Britain, whose bountiful hospitality he was enjoying to the full, and, further, to the endurance of her well-tried friendship with Japan.

The Hague, May 26.—The Queen will receive the Japanese Crown Prince on his forthcoming visit to Holland.

London, May 26.—There was a brilliant assemblage at the Japan Society's dinner tonight at the Hotel Cecil in honor of the Crown Prince of Japan, including, besides the Duke of York, the Allied Ambassadors, the First Lord of the Admiralty (Lord Lee), and a number of Japanese and European ladies.

Lord Lee, in a speech, dwelt on the marvellous changes in Japan during the past fifty years. The ancient traditions which formed a sympathetic link between Great Britain and Japan were loyalty to the throne and love of the sea.

He referred to what he described as "the brave and momentous utterance of the Japanese Minister of Marine last month in offering suitably to limit Japan's armaments if the other Powers reached a reliable unanimous agreement to the same effect," and hailed the United States Senate's resolution authorising the convoking of a disarmament conference.

The First Lord expressed the opinion that the Japanese Minister of Marine's action showed that Japan, though great in war, was greater still in appreciation of the world's need for peace. (Cheers.)

He was convinced that Japan would never make the mistake which had inexorably brought all militaristic Powers to ruin, as she would do if she forgot that peace was the world's greatest interest. Japan was rightly conscious of her strength, but she was ready to set the example of moderation which was ultimately the greatest attribute of strength.

Mohammedans In Kansu Opposed To Lu As Tuchun

BY JOSEF W. HALL

Peking, May 23.—"While one Mohammedan remains alive in Kansu, Lu Hung-tao shall not be seated in the Tuchunship of the province," General Ma Fu-hsiang said to me in his Peking residence in the West city yesterday. "Lu is the man who, assisted by his confederates, circulated the calumnies about our people which were sent to the Peking government and the outside world preceding and following the great Kansu earthquake of last winter.

"In pursuing his aim of ousting Tuchun Chang Kwang-chien from Lanchow, he was misled into reviving the scare of a new religious war in our province, and the ticklish situation which has existed there since and is at a particularly acute stage at present is entirely the manufacture of politicians who have stooped so low as to play upon racial hatred as a means of advancing their personal careers. No man, who, at the expense of our people's good name and security, has engaged in such wickedness, shall be recognised by them as their administrator."

General Ma spoke in his customary calm, direct manner, but his eyes flashed fire. He is the most revered leader among the Mohammedans, their ablest administrator, and the commander of the bulk of their military strength. He is the exponent of the moderate trend among the Mohammedans, which favors conciliation with the Hans (as the non-Moslem Chinese call themselves) and the obliteration of religious—or racial, as they are often confusedly called—lines in all things political. His favorite motto is: "Moslem and Han—we are all Chinese." He prides himself on having more Chinese than Mohammedans among his retainers—an unusual situation in a large Moslem home.

SUSPICIOUS OF LU

He holds Lu Hung-tao, at present Acting Tuchun and formerly Defense Commissioner of Lungtung Tao in central-eastern Kansu, to be a man of integrity and good intention—and this is, indeed the prevailing estimate of the man throughout the province—but he is unwilling to risk the welfare of nine million people to a man who can be so misled in his statecraft.

The reports which he condemns, and which he blames for the setting of the two peoples on edge with apprehension, are those sent out last fall to the effect that a Mohammedan uprising was impending, and those following the earthquake stating that Ma Yun-chang, or The Benevolent, and three hundred of his chiefs, had been buried by a landslide while in the act of consecrating their prospected holy war.

Ma The Benevolent, according to General Ma, was a harmless religious leader who was endeavoring to increase his religious prestige throughout the Chinese Moslem world. He is admitted to have levied tribute from his followers, but, according to Mohammedans, he had no anti-Chinese motives.

The Chinese of Kansu are apparently laboring under a quite opposite impression, as they are willing, in spite of their tremendous loss of life and property, to call the earthquake a blessing so long as it buried Ma Yun-chang. They recall vividly the Mohammedan crusade of fifty years ago, which laid desolate the country from Lanchow to Honan, and exterminated from one to two million Chinese.

"Where Heaven (through the earthquake) killed its tens, the Moslems killed their hundreds," they say. And if the earthquake did check any impulse to revival of the crusading spirit among the Mohammedans, one who has passed the desolate ruins of thousands of cities and villages in Kansu and Shensi laid waste in the war of extermination, fifty years ago cannot but agree that the quake was, after all, preponderantly a blessing.

GEN. MA RESPECTED

General Ma Fu-hsiang is not credited by the Chinese with having involved himself in the anti-Chinese plot. He is respected and honored by the non-Moslems in his jurisdiction, and there are none in Ninghsia Tao who would willingly exchange rulers with the other Taos in the province. One who has passed through his Yellow River territory and travelled over the extensive grazing lands and richly irrigated river banks with perfect immunity from road robbers, and has noted as well the encouragement given to agricultural and commercial pursuits, and to public works of utility and art, is convinced that Ma Fu-hsiang is one of the few able administrators in China today, and that, to use the words of General Ma himself, "Were there thirty Men in China today" like himself, Moslem or Chinese, "the country would be saved."

"In old dynastic days," said General Ma, "a good administrator was one who gave eight-tenths of his attention toward benefitting his nation and two-tenths toward benefitting himself—a mediocre administrator was one who divided his attention equally between himself and his country. Today, a good administrator is one who gives one-half of one percent of his attention to his country and the remaining ninety nine and one-half percent to his personal and family benefit. And we have few who rank even in this class."

"The situation in Kansu today," continued General Ma, "demands an administrator of intelligence, executive ability and long understanding of the Moslem-Chinese relationship. To continue Lu Hung-tao in power, or follow the recent suggestion to place Chang Hwai-chih, ex-Tuchun of Shantung, or any similar person in the Tuchunship, would be equivalent, on the part of the Peking government, to placing a sword in the hand of each faction in Kansu, and saying: Now fight to extinction."

THE MOSLEM CREED

"I am a Chinese, and I am a Moslem, and all I hold dear is in Kansu. But Moslems are taught that for no comfort or luxury in this life should they undergo the besmirching of their character, and they are not afraid to die. We are not as educated, nor are we as cunning, as the non-Moslem Chinese, but our outstanding trait is this: We fear not death. Any of my men, who have been dealt with justly, will execute without hesitation orders which mean the sacrifice of life."

General Ma has been in Peking since the latter part of March for the purpose of discussing with the government his appointment to the Suiyuan Tutungship, through which puerile diplomacy Peking thought to ease the Kansu situation. General Ma is willing to go to Suiyuan, and the Suiyuan merchants and populace, although non-Mohammedan, are desirous that he should come, having heard of his able administration and the proper behavior of his Moslem troops further up the Yellow River. He will doubtless take up his appointment at Suiyuan as soon as the ex-Tutung, Tsai Cheng-hsuan, newly appointed Minister of War, can raise the money to bring his unpaid, mutinous troops back from that territory. At the same time General Ma has no intention of resigning his influence on the upper Yellow River in Kansu, and he has left his headquarters in Ninghsiafu under command of his nephew, Ma Hung-pin, a man of few words and restricted ability, but fearless soldier.

GENERAL'S NEW HOME

I visited General Ma's new residence, under construction in Ninghsiafu—a palace, constructed entirely by Moslem artisans, which Peking would be hard put to rival—which is an index to the General's intentions regarding his future residence. Ninghsia is an ideal location for the administration of the entire upper Yangtze valley from Suiyuan to Lanchow, which, with the exception of the Suiyuan and Kansu sections, is now the grazing territory of Mongolian and Ordos shepherdesses, but which, with the knowledge of irrigation, the enterprise and capacity for co-operation of the Mohammedans, can be made to blossom as the rose.

The general complained of discrimination against the Moslems, pointing out, for example, that although they comprise four-tenths of the population of Kansu, only one out of the sixty new M. P.'s from Kansu is a Mohammedan. One acquainted with the situation in Kansu is not so much inclined to blame the Chinese there, inasmuch as, when it comes to a show-down, speaking slangily, one Moslem can account for ten Chinese. The Chinese there treat their Moslem brethren with no lack of courtesy, but are careful to restrain any action which might plant ambition in their more aggressive kinsfolk.

In the course of the conversation with General Ma, who, by the way, confirmed the impression which I have received from various Moslem leaders of their friendship and regard for America, above all other foreign nations, it came out that the candidate of the Moslems for Kansu Tuchun is General Yang, present Tuchun of Sinkiang, a non-Moslem native of Yunnan, but a man who has had success in dealing with a Mohammedan populace, and has won the respect and confidence of these people.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies.

Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realise that of all the children born in ivilised countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

Much-Admired Mannequin In Vienna Turns Out To Be A Hungarian Countess

ANOTHER IS A GOVERNESS

Still Another Favorite Of The Former Russian Court Shot Herself At A Hotel Dance

Paris, April 28. The Austrian Archduchess who some weeks ago advertised for an American or English husband of good family to deliver her from poverty and give her back the comfort and luxury to which she had been accustomed all her life, is not alone in her predicament. The upheaval of war and its aftermath have left stranded more than one of those elegant ladies who were once the ornament of Central European Courts. Some of their stories are tragedies. Some have the full flavor of life's irony. Here is one:

In a foremost dressmaking establishment of Vienna there is a mannequin whose beauty of face and figure have won her not only generous employment but considerable fame in the city where next to Paris dress holds sway still among life's interests. So much was she talked of that many went to see the mannequin who had no intention of making purchases at the shop. Among them were former friends of the Countess Czedy, a proud beauty of a Hungarian family, who once dazzled the whole Court of Emperor Franz Joseph. They have let out the secret. Countess Czedy was and is a mannequin who now shows off frocks to the wives of Austrian and German war profiteers, who wonder why they cannot wear them with such grace as they appeared to have when displayed in the shop.

The Countess's story is only one of many. In the home of a rich Vienna banker is a housemaid who was in the Old World of eight years ago the Archduchess Gabrielle of Austria, daughter of Archduke Frederick, a cousin of the old Emperor. She now turns down beds and dusts dressing tables for the banker's daughters. In Switzerland her sister, the Archduchess Alice, gives lessons to some little children who call her Fraulein and treat her as from time immemorial little children have treated their nursery governesses. And these two are happy compared with others.

Briefly, some time ago mention was made in the European papers of the death of Countess Twardowska. Now the full story is known. She once was the idol of the Russian Court, a friend of the Empress and Princesses. On the evening of her death she went alone to the great supper room in the Hotel Imperial in Vienna, for it was there she fled after the Bolshevist revolution. She was elegantly gowned but wore no jewels. Among the cosmopolitan crowd of diners and dancers there were many who wondered who the pale, beautiful woman was.

When the evening's gaiety was at its height and dancers filled the floor, she was seen to take something from her bag and lean forward over the table. There was a sharp report and in an instant the whole scene changed to panic and alarm. Fear for themselves seized the minds of the dancers, who believed a shot had been fired from outside. Before they had recovered waiters had surrounded the Countess's table and the jazz band at a nod from the manager was playing a frenzied foxtrot. Through the nearest door the body of the dead woman was carried to the morgue Later it was known that she had reached the end of her resources some days before she shot herself and could not pay her hotel bill any longer.

Lady Astor's Idea Of 'Lap Of Luxury'

'One Of The Male Members For Plymouth' Tells A Story Of His Colleague

London, April 28.—Sir Shirley Benn, who describes himself as "one of the male members for Plymouth," told an amusing story today when the Earl of Plymouth was presented with the freedom of the Glaziers' Company.

"Lady Astor," he said, "who is a woman of great courage and nimble wit, once asked me why a certain gentleman had voted with the Labor Party. 'I can't think that he has anything in common with the Labor people,' she said. He lives in the lap of luxury and if you go in his country seat he puts you into beds where the sheets are so delicate that you are tickled all night with the blankets.'"

Says Spots On Sun Are Always There

French Astronomer Tells Of Discovery In Connection With Recent Eclipse

Paris, April 16.—French savants made a lot of discoveries last week, when the moon during two hours eclipsed more than three-fourths of the sun's surface, the chief discovery being that of M. Moreux, an astronomer at Bourges, who reported to the French Academy that sun spots which heretofore have been considered occasional phenomena are always existent, but are observable to scientists of the world only under special atmospheric conditions.

Another astronomer, M. Violle, says that the eclipse was accompanied by definite changes in the electrical conditions surrounding the earth, and he is working on extensive calculations which are designed to show that there was considerable potential diminution during the height of the phenomenon, while one of his colleagues, M. Mascard, of the Lyons Observatory, is working out calculations in connection with the variations of light vibrations, which, it is believed, will be most useful to mathematicians.

M. Nordmann, a mathematician, who gained fame during the war as a result of his calculation of the distance of enemy guns by recording the vibrations following shell explosions, has now concentrated his attention on the mysterious Betelgeuse, which, he says, he is confident has a diameter 300 times greater than that of the sun.

TEACHING GIRLS TO GET HUSBANDS

Paris Hires Sorbonne Professor And His Lectures Are Popular

Paris, April 20.—The municipality of Paris is teaching young girls the proper way to catch husbands. It has engaged as lecturer Prof. Mahout of the Sorbonne, who is to speak three times a week to girls of the working classes, giving them pointers on domestic affairs. The shortage of men, combined with the high cost of living, has made it difficult for French maidens to get any husbands, let alone suitable ones, and great is the wailing.

Prof. Mahout believes the best way to obtain a husband and hold him is to feed him well. Therefore he always talks on the necessity of French women knowing how to cook.

"The social role of the mother education she must become an engineer of nations and a health creator of strength and life."

M. Mahcut's lectures are extremely popular.

An Announcement Of A Rich Collection Of Curios For Sale

A rich collection of curios is open for exhibition in my residence. It contains more than two hundred articles, of which the most antique Bronzes are ascertained to range from Shang and Chow Dynasties to that of the Two Hans, and the porcelains from Peh Soong to the beginning of the Tsin Dynasty. They are all well preserved pieces, real and fine. Regarding the genuineness, it has been verfied either by authentic ancient books or by inscriptions as well as initials thereon. None of them is questionable as to its age, designs, markings, etc.

In addition to the Bronzes and Porcelains, there are also wide varieties of valuable Carvings in wood, bamboo, and precious stones, also natural Fossils, Inter-Stones, Tanshi Stones, and Chrysanthemum Stones, etc. Most of these articles are magificent masterpieces of ancient fine art as identified in themselves, and already encased in beautiful artistic casing so as to facilitate transportation at any time.

Due to the successive disturbances in the province, and the recent irregular financial conditions in general, the proprietors of this collection are willing to offer their highly esteemed treasure for cash Now I take the liberty to introduce the same collection to any Chinese or foreign connoisseur who is prepared to take same over at a favorable price.

Those interested in the matter of inspection are requested to apply to Chen Wan Shian Tan, No. 4 Shu Day Tze Kow, Changsha, Hunan, by notifying me in advance, so that I will have the honor of welcoming their esteemed visits at a specified time.

Jute Fabrics

In the jute fabrics circular of May 24 Mr. J. A. Fredericks states:

There has been no change in this market since the last circular, nor will there be any improvement so long as the sessional export does not materialise. Prices continue nominal though Chinese dealers are reported to have sold a few bales of 2¼ lbs. Bluestripe at Tls. 162, which price does not tempt importers.

A wire from Calcutta dated 17th instant reports that the Juté mills have signed an agreement to work only four days during July, August and September.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

May 27, 1921

Spot bar silver was unchanged and forward up 1/8d. in London yesterday.

The New York price declined to 58 cents and the London-New York cross rate is 393¼.

The official Sterling rate was unchanged from yesterday but the Gold Dollar rate was dropped to 62¼, the Rupee rate to 249 and the Franc rate raised to 745.

The market was again very firm throughout the day opening with sellers of Sterling at 3/3¾ and of Gold Dollars at 65½. During the day the market became still firmer and closed with sellers of Sterling at 3/4¼ and of Gold Dollars at 66 for near delivery and 65¾ for forward.

Banks were again today more anxious to sell for near delivery than for forward as our local money market still remains firm. Cables received from India and London report the silver markets there as being quiet and steady.

Cotton

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their cotton market report of today:

China Cotton:—While comparatively very little was done in Spot Cotton during the past week a fairly large volume of business was transacted for forward deliveries at prices a few mace above those ruling last week, however, no sooner the demand on the part of Spinners abated than there evolved a steadier undertone which continues at the close. The receipts from the interior have been fairly heavy, but a considerable quantity of which is of inferior grade having been damaged by rain and exposure during transit and notwithstanding same, holders show very little inclination to dispose of their stocks at anything below the current rates, thereby showing their financial strength and also being encouraged in their attitude by the prosperous yarn situation.

While planting operations have been general throughout the Cotton belt, such was hampered to a great extent by the recent rains, and in many districts replanting has been necessitated. However, from reports received from the Hupeh, Chihli and Shantung Provinces the outlook there at this stage for the new Season Crop is favorable.

As to the near future trend of the market the indications for the present are not retrogressive. Tone of the Market, firm.

American Woman's Club

One of the most important social events of the year will take place today from 4:00 to 7:00 p.m. at the Columbia Country Club, when the American Woman's Club holds its annual garden party. The affair will take place, rain or shine, as there are no lack of facilities for entertainment indoors in case the weather is unfavorable. Members are privileged to invite men guests and the orchestra of the U.S.S. Huron will furnish music for dancing.

Guests will be welcomed at the door by a committee composed of the following Executive Board members: Mesdames A. P. Parker, F. R. Sites, R. W. Squires, T. W. Stedman, A. C. Davis, R. E. Lunkley, and J. H. Snoke. Mrs. Jackson Hammond, chairman of the Social Department will introduce the guests to the Reception Committee composed of Mrs. C. S. Lobingier, president of the club; Mrs. E. S. Cunningham, wife of the American Consul-General; and Mrs. F. W. Stevens, wife of the American Consortium representative; Mrs. F. J. Raven, president-elect; Mrs. R. I. Clapp, first vice-president; Mrs. N. E. Lurton, second vice-president; and Mesdames F. B. Fearn and W. W. Lockwood, both former presidents. Department leaders will act as hostesses through the drawing-rooms.

Those assisting are asked to be at the club house not later than 3:30 p.m.

SOCIAL DEPARTMENT

The Social Department of the American Woman's Club will hold an important business meeting on Tuesday, May thirty-first, at 10:30 a.m. in the Carlton Cafe.

The Pro-Alliancers Answered

SUPPORTERS of the view that Great Britain should renew its alliance with Japan can and do advance only specious arguments. With a great assumption of fairness they will concede that Japan has failed to observe the terms of the alliance; that she has violated it both in letter and in spirit time after time, on every occasion in fact where violation of it appeared to offer her a new chance of profit or advantage. But, they hasten to add, critics of the alliance are prone to overlook the material benefits which have accured from it. They are rather nebulous in describing these benefits, but if there have been benefits, let us pause to ask, what nation has been the beneficiary? And if one nation has been materially advantaged what nations have been disadvantaged? We answer that Japan has been the gainer and that Korea, China and Russia have been the losers.

In considering this question, the pro-alliance contingent deals in the terms of the international relationships which existed in 1905 and 1911, forgetting or at best overlooking the fact that since 1911 the world situation has undergone vaster changes than occurred in the hundred years preceding. In 1911 the old Dreibund, Germany, Austria and Italy, was in full swing, becoming more powerful every day. Germany was aiming to make herself dominant not only on land but on the high seas. The Franco-Russian Entente also was building strong armies and fleets. But all this is gone, forgotten, smashed. There was reason for an Anglo-Japanese Alliance then; there is no reason for it now, and to argue in the terms of 1911 serves only to reveal the weakness of the argument as applied to the present world situation.

These pro-Alliancers even are driven to the necessity of defending Japan's aggressions upon China under the alliance during the war years 1914 to 1918. These aggressions, we learn, were largely attributable to Japan's necessities and to the further facts that the Japanese understanding of what democracy means (in the western sense) is limited and that there is an internal fight going on in Japan between the militarists and the liberals, so that the militarists have to keep on doing these things in order to hold power. They add their confident belief that no sane person would expect Japan to go on acting this way. From the alliance if it is renewed will emerge a white-washed and purined Japan faced about and headed for the paths of glory.

Could anything be more specious? Yes. When one turns to the pro-Alliancers' description of the glorious part that Japan played in the war fighting on the side of Britain and the Allies one can only gasp in amazement at the evidence of mental abasement and moral turpitude they expose. Japan did not trick and delay the Russians; she did not play tag with Germany all through the war; she took Tsingtau as a favor to England under the Alliance (they forget about the secret pacts forced upon the Allies during their bitterest moment of trial, when they had to yield to Japan or be faced with the possibility of her defection to Germany); she did not send her troops to Europe because of the length of the trip. But her navy helped a lot. (Yet it was the Australian navy which rounded up the Emden, which was the only German ship causing any anguish in Eastern waters).

The other side of the picture: While Japan was in the war all the way, the United States was only in it a year and eight months. But the United States was IN it. As soon as we got in our whole first fleet was dispatched to join the British Grand Fleet and everything that the British Admiralty asked for was supplied. And in the short period of one year and eight months, the United States armed, equipped and trained five million soldiers and landed two million of them in France. And if the United States had been as far away as Japan and had she been in alliance with Great Britain she would, in the time Japan was in the war, have landed the whole five million in France. Who doubts this?

The United States recently has offered the hand of friendship and fellowship to Great Britain as no nation in history has ever done to Great Britain. And if now Great Britain takes the other hand (for an alliance is an alliance however you may whip the devil around the stump) the plain course for the United States will be to go on building her navy at whatever intolerable and hideous expense to herself and the rest of the worn out and bankrupt world.

An Unblushing Murderer Comes To A Violent End

(New York American)

Solomon Teiliran, a young Armenian, is in jail in Berlin charged with the assassination of Talaat Pasha, former Grand Vizier of Turkey. The accused declares he killed the Turk in retribution for the slaughter of innumerable Armenians, including his father and mother, by Talaat's orders.

Probably an American book, even one written by an Ambassador of the United States to Turkey, would hardly be admissible in evidence in this case. Yet we think that such of the American people as have noticed the report of the retribution that came to Talaat, certainly the most wholesale murderer known to history, will be interested in some excerpts from the memoirs of Henry Morgenthau, who, as our Ambassador to the sublime porte, was engaged almost daily in efforts to save the remainder of this people from the Turk. Of the measure of the crime Mr. Morgenthau says:

"The great massacres and persecutions of the past seem almost insignificant when compared with the sufferings of the Armenian race in 1915.

"The slaughter of the Albigenses in the early part of the thirteenth century has always been regarded as one of the most pitiful events in history. In these outbursts of fanaticism about 60,000 people were killed.

"In the massacre of St. Bartholomew about 30,000 people lost their lives.

"The Sicilian Vespers, which has always figured as one of the most fiendish outbursts of this kind, caused the destruction of 8,000.

"Volumes have been written about the Spanish Inquisition under Torquemada, yet in the eighteen years of his administration only a little more than 3,000 heretics were done to death.

Perhaps the one event in history that most resembles the Armenian deportations was the expulsion of the Jews from Spain by Ferdinand and Isabella. According to Prescott, 160,000 were uprooted from their homes and scattered broadcast over Europe and Africa.

"Yet all these previous persecutions seem trivial when we compare them with the sufferings of the Armenians, in which at least 600,000 people were destroyed, and perhaps as many as 1,000,000."

In the massacres that went on during the period of the war Talaat, himself now dead by an assassin's hand, was the prime mover. He openly declared to Ambassador Morgenthau his purpose to destroy the entire Armenian nation:

"It is no use for you to argue," said Talaat in answer to Morgenthau's plea, "we have already disposed of three-quarters of the Armenians; there are none at all left in Bitlis, Van and Erzeroum. The hatred between the Turks and the Armenians is now so intense that we have got to finish with them. If we don't they will plan their revenge."

After having slaughtered most of the Armenians Talaat made of Morgenthau what the latter calls "the most astonishing request I have ever heard." It was expressed thus:

"I wish that you would get the American life insurance companies to send us a complete list of their Armenian policy holders. They are practically all dead now and have left no heirs to collect the money. It of course all escheats to the State. The Government is the beneficiary now. Will you do so?"

The proposition that the United States Embassy should help the Turk to collect the insurance on the lives of the people he had murdered was too much for Ambassador Morgenthau. He withdrew in wrath.

What a Berlin jury will do with the youth who sought to avenge his people upon their murderer we don't know, but it would not be hard to guess what the effect of the citation of that record would be in an American court—say in Oklahoma.

A train ran from New York to Philadelphia in eighty minutes to oblige Mr. Stokes, banker, who paid $427 for speed.

Within twenty-five years passengers will fly from Philadelphia to New York in less than eight minutes, and for not more than eighty cents, ten cents a minute. Keep that in mind if you gamble in railroad stocks.

Railroads are lame enough now, foolish private owners having taken them back from the Government. They will be lamer yet when the flying machine comes into its own. In that day the passenger train will be like an ancient hansom cab competing with a taxi.

Nothing is more important to every citizen than the Supreme Court. Law is law only when that court says yes—barring civil war or other cataclysms.

Odinarily the Supreme Court has a liberal minority made up of Justices Holmes and Brandeis, thinking as the average little American thinks, and a big conservative majority. Occasionally some of the conservative Majority join the minority in a liberal decision, when public opinion is strong.

Such a case is the Supreme Court decision supporting New York's law against extortionate landlords. Five upheld the law, four voted against it, the law stands. The people's courts have a right to control landlords.

Justice McKenna, in the dissenting opinion, suggested "that the principle of interference with contract smacked of socialism."

The Justice will admit that too many people without a roof over their heads, too many put out on the sidewalk by extortionate landlords, would "smack" of revolution. And revolution "smacks" of something a good deal worse than socialism.

The very prosperous men need, more than anything else, courts and officials that will not give them TOO MUCH. Nothing is more dangerous than too much for those that already have enough. Nothing more dangerous than too much bullying of those that have nothing.

Poor, worried Mrs. Cameron writes a letter of apology to her husband regretting bad conduct, says, "I am bound for the deepest depths of hell," then kills herself.

Fortunately, we know that the young woman wa mistaken. Divine power that created this earth, and Betelgeuse, on which this earth would be about as big as a potato, does not sentence unfortunate creatures to eternal fire for the mistake of a moment, or a year.

But Divine WISDOM is shown in the fact that we suffer here for our sins and crimes, as did that unfortunate woman driven to death by self-condemnation. And weak, superstitious minds, attributing to Divine Providence a brutality that would shame an Apache, frighten themselves into good behavior by the non-existent monster that their imaginations create.

John Daniel, gorilla in the Ringling Brothers' Circus, is dead. Had he died in the jungle ants would have eaten him. Here scientists will dissect him, taxidermists will stuff and mount him, chemicals will preserve him, the great Natural History Museum will exhibit him.

You will be told that his brain is like that of man in structure and in operation. For every bone in the human skeleton John Daniel, the gorilla's skeleton, will show a bone almost exactly similar. Some will say that this proves man descended from the monkey. But it does not. Man grew up alongside the monkey and passed the monkey. He is constructed like the monkey, because both had to fight the law of gravitation.

Your ear was once the gill on a fish, letting out the water. Your five fingers come from the five-toed foot of the salamander that lived millions of years ago under the fern trees that produced the coal beds. But that needn't worry you.

The dead gorilla, killed by home-sickness and tuberculosis, proved the power and value of advertising. He cost twenty thousand dollars and died soon, but his life and death were worth half a million in advertising to the circus. This writing is one of a thousand free advertisements.

Similarly among human beings great men like Patrick Henry with his famous seven words, Desmoulins, with his wonderful short speech on a tin table of the Palais Royal, were worth, to America and France, as advertisers of revolutionary patriotism, more than a million fighting men or many millions of dollars.

Today the Boy Scout is out upon a quest. He is going to put into practice a good deal of his scout lore. He is going to blaze a trail into your hong, your office, your store, and he hopes to get you to find the way to your pocket, so that his books of tickets will quickly change hands.

He is not asking you "something" for "nothing." He, and his brother scouts have been working for weeks upon a display—or jamboree—that will be well worth the dollar admission.

And what for! They want to get a piece of ground, and pay for it, upon which to build a permanent camp, where the best that is in scouting will be brought out. The camp is for your children, and those that follow after. Here is the chance for us, whose boyhood days are far behind, to catch many a glimpse of those happy times, and to help for a brighter future for the world at large, and Shanghai in particular.

PLAY THE GAME

This queer old world and the cricket field
Are much of a kindred clay,
And the fight is stern, and there's no return,
For life is the game we play.
But we'll scorn to sit with the lookers-on,
Our place in the field we'll claim,
And we'll do our best with the old time zest
And the sportsman's cry, "Play the game."

LORD ROSEBERY SAID

"If I were to form the highest ideal for my country, it would be a nation of which the manhood was exclusively composed of men who had been or were Boy Scouts, and who were trained in Boy Scout theory.

"Such a nation would be an honor to mankind, it would be the greatest moral force that the world had ever known."

(Midlothian—1912).

WHY?

Because a Scout's honor is to be trusted
Because he is a friend to all,
Because he is patriotic
Because he looks on the bright side of life.
Because he is thrifty, obedient to lawful authority and useful.
Because his aim in life is to follow in the steps of the "Great Scout," by crossing out the "I" and thinking of others.
That is why a nation guided by the principals of scout craft would be the greatest force the world has known.

B. P. WRITES

"The prevalent disease—no, it is worse than that—the prevalent crime throughout our nation today is self-interest.

"'Where do I come in?' 'How does this or that policy affect my interest?' 'What am I going to get out of it?' These are generally in first thought in one's mind."

The scout's aim is "Individual efficiency for the better service of others"—that's it, true citizenship.

MODERN CHIVALRY

"How shall I know him, Sir?"

The question was asked by a coachman of his master, who was expecting a guest and could not himself go to the station to meet him.

"Look out for a gentleman who is helping someone!"

When the train came steaming into the station, out stepped a gentleman, who turned back, and after helping an old lady out of the train, took her by the arm and guided her out of the crowded station.

The coachman spotted the right man.

Look out for a little gentleman in scout uniform who is helping some one today and welcome him.

France And America

Security For The Nation That Has 'Conquered The World's Heart'

At the banquet of the Franco-America Society in honor of M. Viviani and his mission, President Bulter of Columbia University (New York) as toastmaster, spoke in part as follows:

We are here to greet an old friend—now our close companion and trusted councillor in the tents of victory. We welcome back this excellent spokesman of France, bearing his message of brave cheer and of good will, and recall with admiration and gratitude the moments when the lightning flashes of his eloquence stirred our souls and our minds and our hearts, when the clouds of war hung darkest over the world.

To those among us who from the beginning saw the full meaning of the German attack on civilisation in 1914 came slowly to be added the great body of American public opinion. America entered the war, and M. Viviani, in words never to be forgotten, told us the full meaning of that undertaking, and laid bare to us the ends that were to be sought and the great purposes that were at stake in a series of addresses—and surely that before the Senate of the United States touched the high-water mark of modern eloquence. He stirred our people until they came fully to understand, as they had not understood, that France and Belgium and Britain and Italy were fighting an American battle, and we hastened to their side to do our share.

Now we find new names—strange names—on the lips of American children. By the side of Vicksburg we have written Verdun, by the side of Antietam we have written Chateau Thierry, by the side of the Wilderness we have written Belleau Wood, and by the side of Gettysburg we have written the Marne.

But the end of the war is not yet. Hostilities are over, but the great struggle carried out on the field of battle is now going on in the field of ideas. There are those who whispered to us that perhaps we have been too extreme; perhaps we have been too severe; perhaps we have been unjust.

No, gentlemen, we have not. If we have erred it is in falling short of a full appreciation of the tremendous responsibilities that still rest upon the people of the United States.

The American people change at intervals their Presidents and their policies, but they do not change their principles or their patriotism. They do not propose to allow any form of insidious propaganda, whether it originate in Moscow or in Berlin, or in some nearer spot, to separate us from the great peoples with whom we have just now fought.

It is our set purpose—we of America and we of the English-speaking world generally—to cleave to France and to make secure in the field of ideas those great purposes that were just now defended and accomplished with such awful slaughter and loss on the field of battle.

SECURITY FOR FRANCE

Let no one mistake—a real American, in passing upon the policies of France, may try to be just, but he cannot be dispassionate. He loves France.

France asks security. Why not—why not? That soil, every foot of which is sacred to modern civilisation, every town and village of which is the seat and center of some precious association in the world of achievement, of letters or of art—there it lies, the home of the most agile-minded, the most many-sided and the most cultivated people in the modern world. Why should they not wish to be secure? Why have they not the right to be secure?

There are two ways in which France may perhaps be secure—two ways, at least, which may be tried. One of them is the old way, trie

Home -:- By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

The greatest words are always solitaires,
Set singly in one syllable; like birth,
Life, love, hope, peace. I sing the worth
Of that dear word toward which the whole word fares—
I sing of home.

To make a home, we should take all of love,
And much of labor, patience and keen joy.
Then mix the elements of earth's alloy
With finer things drawn from the realms above,
The spirit-home.

There should be music, melody and song,
Beauty in every spot; an open door
And generous sharing of the pleasure store
With fellow pilgrims as they pass along,
Seeking for home.

Make ample room for silent friends—the books—
That give so much and only ask for space.
Nor let Utility crowd out the vase
Which has no use save gracing by its looks
The precious home.

To narrow bounds, let mirrors lend their aid
And multiply each gracious touch of art.
And let the casual stranger feel the part—
The great creative part—that love has played
Within the home.

Here bring your best in thought and word and deed,
Your sweetest acts, your highest self-control;
Nor save them for some later hour and goal.
Here is the place, and now the time of need.
Here is your home.

France And America

so often and failed so often—the old way of leaving her to stand alone to face potential enemies of greater population, separated from her by no natural barrier and therefore compelled against her will and her desire to be armed to the teeth and to bear the awful burdens of huge armaments in order not to be caught again unprepared.

That is one way. Can it be possible that the world has learned so little of the meaning of the last seven years that it would sentence France to that awful doom?

Then there is another way, and that way is by such consultation and association of those who have just now been engaged together as shall build every known barrier, every barrier which law and reason and justice and the power of a great combined force of liberty-loving people can erect against an attack like that of 1914.

Of course, there are differences among us, wide differences as to how that should be done; but, gentle men, believe me, it is easy to exaggerate those differences, and easier still to exaggerate their significance, because if there is any one thing on which the heart and mind of the world is set it is that the combined authority of the free nations shall make 1914 forever impossible.

Only yesterday, in measured words, addressed in highly responsible capacity to the Congress of the United States, the President committed himself and his Administration to a constructive policy of that sort. It may differ, it will differ, from other policies proposed, but I am one of those who believe that the end aimed to be sought by the differing policies is the same; and that eventually that end will be reached.

No, gentlemen, France will not be sentenced by the world to an isolated position of armed defense—she will not. France will find her security in these new developments that are multiplying about us and that within two, three or four years will undoubtedly take some form that will be commonly approved, and she will find her safety in the position she holds in the heart and the conscience of the civilised world.

France has conquered the world's heart and the world's heart will enfold her in safety.

A people may speak with stately and responsible formality by the voice of its government. A people may more frequently speak with no less sincerity and no less power by the voice of its public opinion; and gentlemen, if ever again an enemy should endeavor to do to Belgium and to France what was done so ruthlessly in August of 1914, American public opinion in a voice that would be heard all round the world, and in a phrase that will never die, would say to that enemy: "You shall not pass!"

Garrett P. Serviss's Article

Eminent Astronomer and Writer on Problems of Scientific Interest

"Why does the sun shine on the north side of houses in the higher latitudes, though it apparently travels north of the equator only 23½ degrees? Had quite a tilt with a scientific journal on this question though they finally admitted their error. Of course you could easily answer the question, but it might be an interesting one for some of your readers."

Anybody who hastily assumes that the sun does not shine on the northern side of houses situated at a greater distance north of the equator than 23½ degrees is, doubtless, misled by thinking of the position of the sun at noon, which is always south of the zenith, or of the plane of the prime vertical (the east-and-west line), at any place on the earth north of the tropic of Cancer, which lies 23½ degrees north of the equator.

For instance, at 40 degrees north latitude the sun at noon on the day of the Summer solstice, when the solar north declination is the greatest possible, crosses the meridian 16½ degress south of the zenith, and consequently cannot, at that hour, shine on the northern side of a house standing foursquare to the cardinal points. But since the sun at that time is only 66½ degrees from the north pole, its apparent diurnal path in the heavens meets the circle of the horizon of 40 degrees latitude at from the pole, or 32 degrees north of an east-and-west line.

CONSULT A SCHOOL GLOBE

From this it follows that when rising and setting the sun appears far round toward the north of east and west, respectively, and therefore shines on the northern side of a house situated as described above. The best and quickest way to see the reason for this is to consult a school globe. That will show you graphically that, at the Summer solstice, the sun does not cross south of the plane of the prime vertical until toward the middle of the forenoon, after which it trends southward until just at noon it is 16½ degrees south of the zenith, or of the prime vertical.

After the middle of the afternoon, however, it crosses back to the northern side of the prime vertical and shines on the north face of the house until sunset, the sunset point, or the amplitude of the sun at sunset, being over 30 degrees north of west, just as its rising occurred more than 30 degrees north of east.

The north amplitude of the sun and likewise its noon distance south of the zenith increase with increase of latitude, so that the apparent diurnal course of the sun through the sky in Summer approaches more and more toward parallelism with the horizon, until at the north pole it actually is parallel.

ON DAY OF SOLSTICE

When the latitude is 66½ degrees—that of the arctic circle—the amplitude of the sun becomes 90 degrees, so that both its rising and setting points on the day of the solstice are at the north point of the horizon. In fact, on that day the sun does not really set on the arctic circle, but skims the northern horizon at the hour which in our latitude would be midnight. Nevertheless at noon it crosses the meridian 44 degrees south of the zenith.

North of that circle the sun does not even touch the horizon, but swings completely around the sky in twenty-four hours, and at the pole its course, for that day, is elevated about 23½ degrees above the horizon all around. A house standing on the north pole would have its north side turned toward the zenith; in other words, its north side would be its roof, and the sun would shine continuously upon it, though at a varying angle, from March 21 until September 22, after which, for the next six months, it would be left to the starlight.

If now we go to the equator, we shall find that there, after the 21st of March, and continuously thenceforward until the 22nd of September, the sun shines on the northern face of a house all day. This necessarily follows from the fact that such northern face is parallel with the equator, and when the sun is north of the equator, however little, it is also north of the house—not directly north, of course, but north of the plane of the house wall and therefore north of the zenith.

SHINES ON NORTHERN SIDE

As the sun progresses in northern declination after March 21 and until June 21 (the solstice), places situated between the equator and the tropic of Cancer, which lies 23½ degrees north of the equator, running through the Strait of Florida on our side of the world, successively find the sun beginning to shine on the northern side of their houses the whole day long from sunrise to sunset. But north of the tropic of Cancer this cannot occur, because the sun never passes north of the zenith of any place above the latitude of 23½ degrees.

Yet, as we have seen, for a portion of every day, between sunrise and noon and between noon and sunset, the sun shines on the northern side of houses anywhere in the northern hemisphere, when it itself is north of the equator.

She was the cause of all sorrow. An unsuspecting girl, made the victim of circumstance, becomes

"THE WRONG WOMAN"

Women always suffer because of man's foolish infatuations, they pay the price for his excesses, they are the victims of his jealousy and perfidy. No discrimination is made whether she be the right woman or "THE WRONG WOMAN." She is the victim of circumstances. Such perplexing problems are all part of the plot of the feature production, "THE WRONG WOMAN."

Have you ever been made the victim of circumstances, of jealousy, of idle gossip, of excesses?—perhaps your emotions are depicted in this picture. You will want to see it.

Matinee on Sunday 29th, showing 'THE WRONG WOMAN'
